

RUSSIAN TRAP CLOSING ON GERMAN ARMY IN GIGANTIC BATTLE IN SOUTHWEST AREA

Allies Pounding Way to Rome in Two-Edged Drive

Fifth and Eighth Armies Advancing

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGERIA, Nov. 8 (AP)—Allied forces hammered relentlessly toward Rome today, the Eighth army reaching a point less than thirty miles from the port of Pescara on the Adriatic sea and the Fifth army driving hard on Gaeta, only seventy miles from Rome.

The Germans apparently were destroying Gaeta's harbor facilities in the face of imminent Allied occupation.

Start Destroying City

From their frontline positions nine miles from Gaeta, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's Fifth Army fighters heard several great explosions in the city, evidently from mines set off by the hard-pressed Nazis. Gaeta is the best port between Naples and Civitavecchia, above Rome, and would be of supreme value in supplying the next stage of the campaign for the Italian capital.

Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, Eighth Army, sustaining its powerful offensive up the Adriatic, registered a six-mile gain to capture Casabonico, occupy the entire length of the Snello river and turn the whole left flank of the German army.

Advance in Mountains

Thirteen miles inland from the mouth of the Garigliano river, American troops pushed forward a mile over wild mountainous terrain to seize Calabritto, while other units occupied heights overlooking the key enemy stronghold of Migiano after beating back heavy Nazi counterattacks.

The Germans, in belated realization of their danger, tossed two fresh divisions into the fighting but the reinforcements came too late to stem the determined Allied rush. There now are nine Nazi divisions, approximately 135,000 men, in the line across the Italian peninsula.

Counter Attacks Fail

Pescara, apparent objective of Montgomery's crushing drive, is the Adriatic terminus of the most valuable lateral road in Central Italy. The main highway crossing the peninsula through Avezzano to Rome, the Germans were launching repeated tank attacks in unavailing efforts to halt this serious "back door" threat to the Eternal City.

Scarcely less serious from the enemy standpoint was the seizure by General Clark's Americans of heights around Magnano. This drive opened the way for a thrust behind the Aurunci mountains and up a broad valley to Cassino along the Via Cassina, main inland route to Rome. Some German units fighting in this sector were reported here as veterans of the Russian front.

There was much evidence that the Nazis were caught off balance by the weight of the new Allied offensive, just as they were caught floundering by the great fleets which streamed into the Mediterranean a year ago today and seized jumping-off places for the present campaign.

It Won't Be Long Now: American and British Troops Preparing To Open Second Front

By LEWIS HAWKINS

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP)—American and British troops are swiftly preparing for the second front which Marshal Joseph Stalin has said is near and which President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill have promised will be on an unprecedented scale.

Bits of information filter through official channels which tell the enemy nothing he doesn't know, but indicate that the preparations are under way on a rising tide of anticipation.

Greatest American Army

The American army that will storm history's mightiest fortress will be better prepared, better equipped and in greater strength than any army that ever took the field under the stars and stripes.

They will meet the best of Hitler's army beside an Allied force equally powerful, as thoroughly trained in new techniques, and superbly equipped.

Good News From Moscow: Russia Will Pay U. S. in Full, Stalin Promises Donald Nelson

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—Soviet Russia intends to repay her obligations to the United States in full, Donald M. Nelson, War Production Board chairman, declared tonight.

Quoting Marshal Joseph Stalin directly, Nelson said the Russian leader had told him without qualification that "any obligation undertaken by this government (Russia) will be repaid in full, and not by token payments."

Sees Lasting Friendship

Nelson, who returned last week from a three-week survey of Russian war industry, was emphatic in his prediction of long and lasting friendship between Russia and the United States in an address before the congress of American-Soviet friendship at Madison Square Garden.

"Most of what the United States has done for Russia has been in the form of Lend-Lease shipments, which now total over $2,500,000,000. I came away convinced," Nelson said, "that there will be found no two peoples anywhere in the world better qualified to win each other's respect and admiration and friendship than the Russians and the Americans."

Praises Sec. Hull

"I have gained a sense of the warm human feeling which underlies the wonderful achievement of Mr. Hull (Cordell Hull, secretary of state) and his associates" in the signing of the Moscow unity pact, Nelson continued.

"To my way of thinking, the pact which Mr. Hull signed is far more than an important agreement between great powers. It is an expression of the rooted desire of the people of America and Russia and England and China to come closer together, to seek better ways of understanding each other and a better means of expressing their common interests. I join with you in acclaiming the Moscow pact."

Battle for Air Supremacy Looms

Luftwaffe and Allies To Fight Over Italy

ALLIED MILITARY HEADQUARTERS SOMEWHERE IN ITALY, Nov. 8 (AP)—There is every prospect that, starting in December, one of the war's last great air struggles will be fought in the skies over Italy between the Luftwaffe and the powerful American-British air force in this theater.

Officers who had been attached to the staff of Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring quoted him as saying the full strength of the Luftwaffe will be turned to the Mediterranean for the winter after weather breaks operations on the Russian front.

He'll "Show Americans"

"These officers quote Kesselring as saying 'then I will have a real air force and we will show the Americans.'"

Allied military men believe that any such large-scale German air effort will mean its last big gasp of the war.

Not only Allied airmen but many ground generals as well believe that the crack in German military strength in this war will come not in the fleet as in the last war but in the air force.

While Kesselring is reported to have been removed from command in Italy and replaced by Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, this is expected to make no difference in the German high command's plans.

The Germans realize the might of the Allied air force being assembled in the Mediterranean for a winter attack against Germany and are determined to stop it at all costs.

German Plans Revealed

This is one of the main reasons why the Nazi high command is making every effort to keep the Allies away from the big bomber fields around Rome as long as possible even at a heavy cost to their ground forces.

Probe Reveals Japanese Plot

Internees Planned To Fire Building

TULE LAKE, Calif., Nov. 8 (AP)—Rebellious Japanese internees evidently were ready to set fire to the administration building of the Tule Lake segregation center, a former officer of the center testified today, while 150 employees were being held there as hostages during the uprising last Monday.

C. L. Payne, internal security officer who went to work at the camp for disloyal persons eight days ago but resigned four days later, told a state Senate investigating committee that sacks of straw "which looked like they had been soaked with oil" encircled the building.

Present Strong Demands

Payne said that the hundreds of Japanese massed about the building sent in a committee to tell War Relocation Administration officials that if Japanese demands were not met "they would not be responsible for anyone in the building." He added that the Japanese demanded better food, oil and change in personnel, including the dismissal of Dr. Reece N. Pedicord, who had been severely beaten by the internees.

Payne said the Japanese removed the sacks of straw after the demonstration ended.

Payne added that Dillon Myer, national WRA director, tried repeatedly to send the crowd of Japanese to the camp at Gila, Arizona. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Rail Union Heads Reject New Offer Of Wage Boosts

Not Satisfactory, Jewell Declares

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—A new proposal for settling the wage demands of 1,100,000 of the nation's railway employees was quickly turned down today by spokesmen for the workers, adding fresh fuel to disputes that threaten to paralyze rail transportation.

A special presidential board, the second charged with tackling the year-long controversy, recommended a four to ten cent an hour increase for the non-operating employees, such as clerks, maintenance of way laborers, machinists and others who do not operate trains.

Approved by Vinson

The recommendation, approved by Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson, promptly was labeled "entirely unsatisfactory" by B. M. Jewell, chairman of the Rail Employees Wage Conference committee, and as "unacceptable" by George M. Harrison, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks.

The fifteen unions embracing the non-operating employees as well as unions representing the 300,000 operating workers—engineers, firemen, switchmen—already are conducting strike votes in protest against the government's wage awards.

A previous presidential board had recommended an eight cents an hour increase for the non-operating groups, but Vinson refuses to approve it. Another board had awarded a four-cent an hour increase to the operating groups, but this was rejected by the workers. In accepting the latest recommendation on the non-operating employees' wages today, Vinson offered to approve an upward adjustment in some brackets in the increase for the operating workers.

Miners Resume Work

As the rail dispute headed toward a crisis, there were other developments on the labor front. The majority of the nation's miners, tapping off their fourth general walkout in six months, went back to the pits and restoration of normal operations Tuesday or Wednesday was generally expected. Those lagging behind in the back-to-work march apparently were holding out for clarification of the terms of a new contract which increased the miners' earnings $1.50 a day but added an hour to their daily working time.

A report that labor groups are dissatisfied with the "little steel formula," limiting wages increases to thirteen per cent of the January, 1941, level, was relayed to President Roosevelt by Sidney Hillman, head of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers. Most of the dissatisfaction, Hillman told reporters upon leaving the White House, stems from the feeling that Congress has failed to provide strict controls over prices to offset the stabilization of wages.

Heavy Snow Blocks Roads in Midwest

CHICAGO, Nov. 8 (AP)—Heavy snow whipped by powerful winds blocked roads, closed schools and impeded traffic across a wide stretch of the wintry midwest today.

The first extensive snow of the season, scaling up to a foot or more in some places, reached its greatest depths in Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and the Dakotas and fell in several adjacent states.

63 Japanese Planes Shot Down In New Air Battles in So. Pacific

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Tuesday, Nov. 9 (AP)—Sixty-three Japanese planes have been destroyed in new air battles over the South Pacific sector. Twenty-three planes were shot out of the air and twelve destroyed on the ground in another of a growing series of smashups on Rabaul, New Britain, headquarters last day.

Japanese planes also were active on a widespread scale. They struck at Empress Augusta bay, where United States marines hold a bridgehead on the west coast of Bougainville.

They struck south of Bougainville at Allied-won Treasury Island. They also attacked two positions on New Guinea and another on New Georgia.

In the continuing Allied air strike at concentrations of enemy warships and freighters sent into the battle for the Solomons, a heavy cruiser and two destroyers were attacked off Bougainville with unreported results.

FIRST PHOTO OF RUSSIANS ENTERING KIEV

Japs Pay Heavy Price at Rabaul

Showdown Battle Is Yet To Come

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Tuesday, Nov. 9 (AP)—Japan is paying a terrific price to hold Rabaul, anchor of its entire South Pacific position, and the showdown battle is yet to come.

Since the United Nations forces put the pressure on in earnest to unhinge Rabaul and throw the Japanese entirely out of the Solomons, Japanese planes and warship losses have reached staggering proportions.

In that period, covering less than a month, forty-two enemy warships have been listed as sunk or damaged and nearly 800 planes have been destroyed, probably destroyed or damaged over Rabaul. The warship figures include vessels sunk or damaged in last week's battle of Empress Augusta bay and actions in the waters of the general Rabaul area, but do not count the many non-combat ships sunk or damaged.

A comparative lull in fighting that developed over the weekend doubtless was explained by the enemy's losses and his efforts to restore his defensive position. Allied strength was little impaired in the same period.

A claim that seventy-eight Allied warships had been sunk or damaged in the "battle of Bougainville" between Oct. 31 and Nov. 5 was broadcast by the Tokyo radio.

Japanese warship losses in the battle for Rabaul, dating back to the first heavy air raid of October 12, were reported by communiques as: three cruisers and fourteen destroyers sunk; eleven heavy cruisers, three light cruisers, seven destroyers and four miscellaneous combat vessels damaged. In addition, there was heavy destruction to other enemy shipping—tankers, cargo ships, coastal vessels and barges.

Ground action in the Solomons, centering on Bougainville and Choiseul islands, apparently was progressing favorably. General Douglas MacArthur's Monday communique gave no report.

Ward Made Supervisor Of B. & O. Terminals

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Cross-channel air warfare continued on a small scale today while squads toiled through the debris of Britain's worst bombing episode in a year, the smashing of a crowded suburban London dancehall and two taverns by a single bomb.

A number of American and British service men and women were believed to have been in the dancehall. American and British officers visited a nearby mortuary where the bodies were being identified.

Toll Believed Heavy

The British said officially a "considerable" number of persons were killed. The toll was the greatest since forty-four children were killed in the bombing of the Catford school last Jan. 20.

Survivors told graphically how it feels to be the target of one of the Germans' new 400-mile-an-hour hit-and-run night raiders.

"I was standing talking to my brother," a munition worker in the dancehall related, "and everything seemed to go up in the air and my brother disappeared. Next thing I remember I was digging myself out with my bare hands."

"We didn't hear a plane overhead, but suddenly the lights went out and I found myself buried beneath plaster and ceiling fittings," said a bartender in one of the public houses.

Sec. Ickes Scores Hearst Press And Patterson-McCormick Papers

Chicago Publisher in Reply Says Cabinet Officer Does Dirtiest Work for New Deal

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—Secretary of Interior Ickes, calling on Americans to realize that Russians will be powerful in peace as they are mighty in war, accused "the Hearst press and the Patterson-McCormick newspaper axis" tonight of "deliberately fostering ill will" between Allies.

The cabinet member, speaking at Madison Square Garden exercises celebrating the tenth anniversary of United States relations with Russia, praised the Soviets for their triumphs over Hitlerism, pictured a great future for them, exulted over the Moscow unity pact and tore into "those American newspapers he called 'vendors of venom.'"

Seeks Understanding

"It is of the utmost importance for our two nations to understand each other," Ickes said in his speech prepared for broadcast over CBS.

"Unfortunately there are powerful and active forces in this country that are deliberately fostering ill will toward Russia. There are those who hate Premier Stalin and President Roosevelt so bitterly that they would rather see Hitler win the war, if the alternative is his defeat by a leadership shared in by the great Russian and the great American."

"Need I name names? Let me simply mention, as example, the Hearst press and the Patterson-McCormick newspaper axis, particularly the latter."

Colonel Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, in a statement made in New York in answer to Secretary Ickes's speech, said:

"Ickes in Chicago was a small bucket shop operator, who as a Republican did dirty work for Democratic Boss Brennan. He was taken into the administration to do its dirtiest work, which he did consistently, and as a reward has been allowed to carry on petty graft in his department."

"The speech tonight before the Communist gathering at Madison Square Garden is only an attempt to distract attention from the overwhelming repudiation of Roosevelt at the last elections."

"I wouldn't reply to this man with a fouler tongue than Winchell's except that it gives me the opportunity to point out that the only hope that the people who want to overthrow our republic have is to steal the Republican nomination for president in 1944 as it was stolen in 1940."

The sharp-tongued Ickes, who has swapped bitter words previously with publishers critical of the administration, went even stronger tonight saying:

"It may be a consolation of a very sort to our Russian and British friends to be told that if these newspaper publishers hate Russia and Great Britain, their hate of their own country is more than libertine."

"For, despite anything that anyone might say to the contrary, the fact is that they must hate their country and despite its institutions if, deliberately, they pursue an intention to stir up hate for the two nations whose help we must have if we are to defeat Hitler."

Ickes assigned to these publishers "one quality x x x in common with Hitler that probably annoys him in their eyes." This he said is "con- (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

New Beer Parlor Putsch: Hitler Promises Mass Executions And Fanatical Fight To the End

By JAMES F. KING

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Adolf Hitler vowed today the Nazis would fight fanatically to the end, and admitted some persons in Germany wanted an Allied victory, warned he would resort to mass executions to prevent a home front collapse.

Planned by Nazi party bigwigs in a Munich beer cellar, Hitler, in a beligerent, somewhat boastful speech broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press, demanded loyalty above all.

He aimed sharp threats in many directions, but marked the sharp-est toward his own home front.

"I know that I demand the apparent impossible from the battle-front," he asserted, "but this almost impossible must force a decision in our favor."

In the speech, which took just (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Could Shorten War in Europe, Simpson Asserts

15,000 Nazis Killed In Fighting at Kiev

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press War Analyst
A monster new Russian trap designed to destroy all Nazi forces in Southwestern Russia or force them in demoralized flight into tottering satellite Rumania is shaping up tonight west of recaptured Kiev.

One branch of the double Northern arm of the Red Army is already fifty miles or more southwest of its jump-off from recaptured Kiev. It has cut 200 miles in their rear the prime rail and road communications for all German forces still in the Dnieper bend pocket, or east of the bug river line in the Southwestern Ukraine. Coupled with the Russian break-through to Kherson in the south, a scant forty miles from Niko- (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4) lay at the Bug mouth, it menaces a million or more Nazi troops with encirclement.

There is no parallel in military history for what the Russians appear to be attempting. In territorial scope, the boldness of strategic conception, the speed of attack and in the gigantic size of the forces involved on both sides, no previous military operation matches this final phase of the battle of the Ukraine.

A supreme military disaster that could rock German war morale to its foundations and shorten the war in Europe by months is confronting the German high command.

15,000 Germans Killed On Kiev Battlefield

By JUDSON O'QUINN

LONDON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Red Army swept up sixty more villages today in a steady hammering-back of 180,000 German troops routed from the Kiev area, striking to within 115 miles of the old Polish border, a Moscow communique announced tonight.

A special broadcast bulletin recorded by the Soviet monitor said the Germans left 15,000 dead and 62,000 prisoners on the Kiev battlefield after the four-day fight preceding the Ukraine capital's capture last Saturday.

Take Important Junction

Makarov, twenty-eight miles due west of Kiev, and only fifty miles from Zhitomir, a junction on one of the last two north-south railways and available to the Germans short of the Polish border, was taken by the hard-fighting forces of Gen. Nikolai P. Vatutin, the daily communique said.

Southwest of Fastov the Russians were reported to have gained ten miles to put them within 140 miles of the Rumanian frontier in their powerful effort to create a huge trap around the hundreds of thousands of Germans fighting in that area between the Dnieper river and the Black Sea.

A Moscow broadcast beamed to the Baltic states said that spearheads of another Red Army fighting west and southwest of Nevel on the north central front had reached the outskirts of Polotsk, only twenty miles from the old Polish border.

Reds Gain in East

In the Eastern Caucasus, the Russians still were fighting to improve their bridgehead near Kerch, and the German high command acknowledged "local success" by Soviet units fighting on the Perskop isthmus. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

Court To Rule On Price-Fixing

Promises Review Of Living Costs

By EDWARD H. HIGGS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—The supreme court decided today to rule on the constitutionality of war time price-fixing regulations, pillar of the government's stabilization program.

In another action which may affect efforts to control living costs, the tribunal also agreed to review litigation which the Justice department said involved the question whether public utility rate increases should be denied as inflationary unless the increases are "clearly" shown to be necessary.

Regulation Challenged

The price regulations administered by the Office of Price Administration were challenged by two Boston meat dealers, Benjamin Rottenberg and Albert Yakus, who were convicted and sentenced to imprisonment on charges of violating OPA maximum wholesale prices on beef.

Yakus and Rottenberg contended that the emergency price control act represents an unconstitutional delegation of Congressional powers. The first federal circuit court ruled, however, that Congress may control prices as part of a war-time program to prevent inflation.

The public utility rate increase involves an order of the public utilities commission of the District of Columbia permitting the Washington Gas Light Company to increase its rates $200,000 annually. The commission declared the increase was granted under a sliding scale formula after full consideration of war time factors, including wage increases.

Government Appeals

The Justice department, intervening for Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson and the OPA, appealed from a lower court decision upholding the commission's action. Solicitor General Charles E. Fahy asserted the company already was earning a net of five percent and contended that effective stabilization is possible only if all increases in utility rates, as well as in prices and wages, are denied unless the increases are absolutely necessary.

Could Shorten

mus at the northwestern corner of the big sealed off peninsula. The Russians were cleaning out the thirty-mile area between Pastov and Makarov.

Indirectly acknowledging the gravity of the German position, the daily Berlin communiqué said the Nazi army was fighting bitter defensive battles against "superior forces."

The special Russian announcement giving details of the battle for Kiev said 12 German divisions, two of them tank divisions and one motorized, were routed.

Heavy Toll Reported

In addition to the 21,200 troops lost by the Germans, Moscow gave this toll of enemy equipment:

Destroyed—244 German tanks, 126 aircraft, 174 field guns, including 48 self-propelled guns, 158 mortars; 640 machine-guns, 650 trucks; 700 carts; over 2,000 horses; 34 munition dumps, and 18 radio transmitters.

Kiev, however, once the most beautiful city in Russia, is now a scene of devastation, the newspaper Pravda said.

While the Red army refrained from firing a single shell or dropping a single bomb on the city in the hope of sparing it, Pravda said the Germans systematically destroyed it, beginning their demolition with the wrecking of Kreshchatki—the city's boulevard regarded as a symbol of modernity.

Loot Russian Cathedrals

The enemy also blew up the famous Uspenskiy cathedral, and the Pechora monastery after looting them of all gold, pictures, precious robes and other fixtures. The water and utility systems also were blasted.

The Soviet communiqué did not mention the progress of the campaign inside the Dnieper bend near Krivoy Rog or along the lower stretches of the river at Nikolov, Berislav and Kherson, where units of Gen. Fedor Tolbukhin's fourth Ukrainian army have reached the river opposite those cities.

German broadcasts reported those battlefronts were quiet except for a German thrust below Nikolov.

An encircled Russian group was smashed, Berlin said.

Dispatches from Stockholm telling of the Soviet announcement of fighting on the outskirts of Polotsk also said that the Germans hastily were removing civilians in the 110-mile-wide area between Lake Ilmen in Russia and Lake Peipus on the Estonian border, apparently faced with the possibility of a forced German withdrawal from the Leningrad area.

Extensive mobilization of the populations in Estonia and Latvia have been attempted by the Germans to aid in working on a new defense zone for the Baltic states, but hundreds of persons were said to be escaping to the forests to avoid aiding the Nazis.

The Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet declared panic prevailed along the Baltic border areas of Russia, and that "the Germans are not masters of the situation."

fields are a sign of weakness or prudence."

The Nazi chief acknowledged reverses in Russia and, referring to Allied bombings of Germany, said "The sufferings of the German people through this bombing are enormous."

He reiterated, however, that "however long this war lasts, we shall never capitulate. We shall not give in at the eleventh hour. We shall go on fighting past 12 o'clock."

"I can support and lead the German people," he said. "I can say that whatever may happen at the end, victory is certain."

"If Germany breaks under the strain, I would not be sorry for it. It would not deserve any better fate. But this will never happen. x x x The fight for Germany has made me what I am."

Hitler averred that only the Nazi party was holding the German nation together, and demanded that party members "must bring to reason the unworthy and, if necessary, destroy him, because there is one thing which is beyond doubt and that is that this is a war without pity."

In a sarcasm-dripping reference to the recent Moscow tri-power party of the United States, Britain and Russia, Hitler said:

"They set up committees to study the shape of the world after the war. They would do better to think out how to shape their own world at present."

Respects to Britain

He reiterated his old charge that Britain was the prime mover in the war, and invoked the bolshevik bogey, saying "whatever sacrifices we have to bear now, they are not to be compared with what we would have to bear if we lost this war."

Hitler said of the fighting in Italy that "the storm to Brenner (Brenner pass in Northern Italy next to Southern Germany) has become a small offensive far to the south of Rome. (The Allies are reported less than seventy-five miles south of Rome.) It will have to pay its toll of blood—and that is according to our plans."

He declared that "every new landing in Italy will force the Allies to employ additional tonnage and split up their forces and wherever a landing occurs it will meet with German resistance."

Happy Over Benito

Hitler said he was happy that his friend, Benito Mussolini, had been "rescued" from Allied hands, declaring that Mussolini "had done everything to make his people great, strong and happy and, in addition, let them participate in the big decision."

"The Italian collapse," he went on, "cannot be without repercussions on war developments. But the hopes of our opponents are in vain. Nothing of what they expected has happened, nor will it happen."

benefit under the "little steel formula," decided in Philadelphia to aid for reopening of its wage contracts in an attempt to obtain increases exceeding the formula's ceilings. This was interpreted as only the opening move by all CIO unions to win increases.

Announcement of the special board's recommendation in the non-operating railway case came as Jewel and Harrison were testifying before a Senate Interstate Commerce subcommittee in support of a resolution to enforce the first board's award of an eight-cent increase, already accepted by the carriers.

The eight-cent increase, it has been estimated, would add about $204,000,000 annually to railroad payrolls and the new proposal would cost at least as much. Under it, the increases would be effective Nov. 19 and would be retroactive to Feb. 1. The scale would be:

All wages less than forty-seven cents an hour to be increased ten cents an hour.

Wages between forty-seven and fifty-five cents to be increased nine cents an hour.

Wages between fifty-five and sixty-nine cents to be increased eight cents an hour.

Wages between seventy and seventy-nine cents to be increased seven cents an hour.

Wages between eighty and eighty-nine cents to be increased six cents an hour.

Wages between ninety and ninety-five cents to be increased five cents an hour.

Wages between ninety-five and over to be increased four cents an hour.

Crawled to Street

"I didn't hear the bomb come down," recounted a seventeen-year-old girl factory worker who was in a milk bar under the dancehall. "But suddenly the lights went out and I was thrown down and stuff started to shower on me. I thought the bricks never would stop falling. I managed to crawl out into the street."

The milkbar was the Sunday night rendezvous for young people of the district, and after the blast parents of dozens of families waited in the streets as long as ten hours for word of their children.

Rescue squads, toiling by searchlights on cranes, pulled the dead and injured into the road. Two British and one Belgian soldier died before they could be moved to a hospital.

At several hospitals, the surgeons operated all night and the day nursing shifts came back to work an extra shift.

Marigny's Alibi Witness Trapped

Previous Testimony Proves Confusing

By E. V. W. JONES

NASSAU, BAHAMAS, Nov. 8 (AP)—Alfred de Marigny's chief alibi witness ran afoul of a prosecutor armed with a surprise document today and found himself in a red-faced confusion before he finished his story of his friend's activities on the night Sir Harry Oakes was slain last July.

Moving swiftly toward the end of de Marigny's trial for the murder of his father-in-law, the defense then matched the word of one American police captain against another in an effort to discredit the fingerprint offered by the crown as evidence that the defendant was present when the aged gold miner was beaten on the head and set afire.

Nancy To Testify Today

The defense expects to rest its case tomorrow, with nineteen-year-old Nancy Oakes de Marigny, eldest daughter of Sir Harry and de Marigny's wife, as the final witness.

The Marquis Georges de Viseleou, who has known de Marigny since they were boys, was called upon to substantiate the accused man's story that he was home in bed at the time Sir Harry was attacked in his sea-side estate, Westbourne, five miles away.

Previous witnesses have set the time of Sir Harry's death at between 1:30 and 3:30 a. m. July 8, and the handsome de Viseleou recalled under oath that he talked to de Marigny in the cottage they shared at 1:30 a. m. and about 3:15 was asked by the latter to put out his cat.

But Special Prosecutor A. P. Adderley suddenly opened a signed statement de Viseleou had given to police July 11, and read this excerpt:

Contradiction Offered

"I actually did not see de Marigny from midnight until the following morning."

"I am French and very emotional," said de Viseleou in explanation. "I was very nervous then."

Adderley, pointed out that every page was signed by de Viseleou, read another passage:

"While at Westbourne July 10 de Marigny reminded me he had called to me about the cat. I didn't recollect this until he reminded me. I don't remember whether de Marigny called me from the bedroom or not. There was something about a cat."

Chief Justice Sir Oscar Bedford Daly grew impatient when de Viseleou swore that his police statement about his early life was correct.

"How can you go through all that about Paris and London," he demanded, "but become vague on happenings only a couple of days old?"

Chance To Explain

"I now give you an opportunity to explain how your memory became vague on the happenings of July 8."

"I cannot explain, your honor," said the fustered witness.

Chief Defense Attorney Godfrey Higgs came to his aid by reading a paragraph from the police statement which Adderley had not quoted:

"About 1:30 de Marigny came upstairs and asked if he could take my girl friend home."

"Did you say that?" the chief justice asked.

"Yes, I said that," came the reply.

Higgs interposed a question: "The only statement you don't recollect is that of the cat?"

"Yes, about the cat," said de Viseleou.

"You are not saying this just to support the case of the accused?" asked the chief judge.

"No, your honor," the witness declared.

Next on the witness stand, Capt. Maurice B. O'Neill of the New Orleans police declared:

"I can say positively exhibit J did not come from that screen."

Thus he took issue squarely with Capt. James O. Barker of the Miami police who testified that the fingerprint in evidence—exhibit J—was lifted from the bedspread.

which represents a great forward stride in world history."

German Leaders Stupid

Nelson hinted that the top executives of the Allied production command believe the Germans know that they are whipped right now.

"I am amazed at the stupidity of the German leaders who continue to fight against the hopeless odds that are steadily mounting against them," he said. "I do not think that the Nazi high command can have any real hope left."

Nelson said the industrial future of Russia is assured beyond question. Because the Russians are confident of a peaceful future, he said, they are putting incredible effort into the cause of complete victory in this war.

Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Moscow, spoke on the same program, saying:

"Truth ultimately always prevails. Despite either the prejudice, the hatred, or the venality of willful or little men, who challenged it, the good faith and the integrity and purposes of the Soviet leadership and the Soviet people have been demonstrated for years and are now again being irrefutably established in Moscow."

Sec. Ickes

genital and total" disregard for the truth.

As a liar, the secretary continued, Hitler has never been equalled "but that does not mean that he has not had rivals."

Purveyors of Applause

"No reader of any of the newspapers controlled by these four purveyors of applause, unless he were naive indeed, would require proof of the charge that the newspapers referred to, particularly those within the New York-Washington-Chicago axis, have no greater scruple about deliberately saying what is not true, than Hitler himself."

Then the secretary unloaded a special blow for "the Morning Colonel of Chicago," a title he has used in the past for Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, a morning newspaper. Ickes used to call Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, "the Afternoon Colonel" before Knox became secretary of the navy. "The Morning Colonel," said Ickes, "is really in a class by himself. He sees evil, hears evil and does evil. Possessing no good will for anyone, so far as known, he sneers at the attribute. Himself immune to good will, he belittles such a policy between nations."

No Names Mentioned

This was as close as Ickes came to actually naming the publishers, but his reference to the McCormick-Patterson press could refer only, in view of his known views and the context of his speech, to McCormick, J. M. Patterson of the New York Daily News and Eleanor Patterson of the Washington Times-Herald.

"Pro-Fascist snipers, following the line of the Patterson-McCormick axis, constantly spew out hate of our brave and valiant ally, the Soviet Union," Ickes said, "and insinuate rank intentions to disparage equally brave England to the deliberately intended hurt of our own country. The excuse given by these four vendors of venom for their unpatriotic behavior is that the Soviet Union has chosen to be communist politically."

Well, said Ickes, so what?

"We do not like Communism? Well, the Russians do not like Capitalism. Communism has faults? Capitalism has plenty of them too."

"For my part I have always believed that any political entity is entitled to that form of government which the majority of its people desire."

anese away but they refused to budge.

Some Carried Knives

A number of the internees carried knives and sticks, Payne said.

Charles K. Wiese, formerly property control officer at the camp, told the committee the internees had been trying for more than a year to see how much they could get away with.

The army took over the Center last week at the request of the War Relocation Authority and broke up a disturbance with tear gas after internees had beaten some civilian employees, held WRA authorities virtual prisoners and committed various acts of sabotage.

About 16,000 Japs, considered disloyal to the United States are housed at the center.

Weise, first witness at the investigation, gave this picture of conditions at the camp:

Picture of Camp Life

There have been three strikes of Japanese who were supposed to unload coal at the center. Thirty carloads of coal finally had to be shipped out because demurrage was piling up.

The coal crews, when they worked at all, worked only about two hours a day—and got paid for eight hours. Once the coal workers leaped from the boxcars, commandeered trucks and drove away, telling Weise they were "going to get" Mr. Hays (J. O. Hays, formerly assistant project director). Weise telephoned Hays and Hays decided he wouldn't be there when the Japanese reached his office.

Battle for Air

concentrate numbers of fighters in the Po valley to try to intercept Allied bomber fleets as they cross the Alps.

The Allied tactical airforce, the largest and most potent weapon of its kind in the world, and the Allied strategic airforce, which is second only to the British-based RAF in bomber fleets, welcome this expected showdown battle.

As long as the Americans have daylight bombers to operate over German airfields it is difficult to see how the Germans ever will be able to build up enough strength to challenge the Allies seriously, let alone throw great bomber fleets into action.

A vital factor in air superiority is the daylight bomber and the Germans thus far have been unable to develop such a weapon that can stand up against fighters.

If the Germans do seriously challenge the raids of the new Fifteenth American Airforce into the Reich as Kesselring predicted—and lose the battle—they may have only a skeleton airforce in the spring to meet possible invasion from all sides.

New Liberty Ship

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Liberty ship Edward Bruce, named for the organizer of the public works administration's art projects, was sent into the water today at Bethlehem-Paichild to begin the shipyard's week's schedule of a launching a day.

Cold Weather, Light Snow Predicted Today In Western Maryland

Cold weather and light snow are on the way to Western Maryland, according to a report issued last evening by the United States Weather Bureau.

The prediction for Maryland is much colder with intermittent light snow this afternoon and early tonight, and freezing temperature in west portion tonight; partly cloudy and continued cold tomorrow.

During the twenty-four hour rainfall which ended last evening the precipitation recorded in the city hall gauge was approximately one and one-half inches.

The temperature here at midnight was 46 degrees and the low at Thomas, W. Va., and Deal, Pa., was 40 degrees.

Crash Injuries Fatal To Two 8 Miles East of Hancock

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Nov. 8 (AP)—Miss Ruth Donnelly, 20, of Martinsburg, Pa., died in the Washington county hospital today of injuries received in an automobile accident in which her father Harry E. Donnelly, was killed.

Miss Jane Frederick, 19, of Curryville, Pa., occupant of the car driven by Miss Donnelly when it collided with a beer truck, remained in a critical condition in the hospital. Donnelly's brother, G. W. Donnelly, 54, of Williamsburg, Pa., escaped with minor head injuries.

State Trooper Charles Mades said the cause of the accident, which occurred on United States route forty eight miles east of Hancock, was not determined. The beer truck was driven by Donald McCauley of Hagerstown, who was slightly injured.

Wounded Negro Held In Fatal Shooting of Baltimore Policeman

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 (AP)—A wounded negro held under guard in a hospital for questioning in connection with the fatal shooting of a Baltimore patrolman was identified by police tonight as Thomas Toler, 20.

Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson said that a bullet removed from the body of Patrolman William Knight, 35, shot to death Sunday night, would be examined by federal authorities in an effort to determine whether it was fired from a gun found in the negro's possession.

Tule Lake Japs Praised in Tokyo

NEW YORK, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Tokyo radio, in a broadcast directed to the United States said tonight that Japanese internees involved in recent disturbances at the Tule Lake segregation center in California were "living up to the true spirit of the Japanese."

1,000 Extra Guards Protecting Pope

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 8 (AP)—Pope Pius's guard in Vatican City has been increased by 1,000 men and has been equipped with modern weapons, the Rome correspondent of the Goeteborg newspaper Handels-och Sjöfartstidning said today.

Ford Strike Ends

DETROIT, Nov. 8 (AP)—The Ford Motor Company reported tonight that a flareup of violence delayed the scheduled return of 4,000 striking foundry workers to their jobs in its big Rouge plant today, but that production resumed with the afternoon shift.

of the "little steel" formula will then present itself to the (war labor) board."

It also would be "fair to assume," he added, that the unions would ask for elimination of the differential between rates in the south and north, in line with the CIO national convention's demand last week for equal pay for equal work.

The southern minimum now is fifty-two cents and the northern seventy-eight cents, he said, adding that reports the steel workers would seek a flat fifteen cents an hour increase were "in the realm of conjecture."

"The whole picture is off balance," he declared. "We agreed to support wage stabilization but when the president's tax program was not adopted by Congress, the burden of the tax load was thrust upon the workers."

Four Births Reported

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Winters, Route 5, announce the birth of a son yesterday morning in Allegheny hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Simpson, Ellerslie Sunday night in Allegheny hospital. Mr. and Mrs. William F. Findlay, 108 South Centre street, announce the birth of a daughter Sunday night in Memorial hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shipley, Route 3, Sunday in Memorial hospital.

MISS ELLEN F. DIXON

Among the survivors of Miss Ellen F. Dixon, 70, 7 John street, Ridgeley, W. Va., who died Sunday morning in a Johnson street confectionery of a heart attack, is a sister, Mrs. Jennie Wolfe, Cumberland. Her name was inadvertently omitted from the account of Miss Dixon's death in yesterday's News.

LODA B. LEPLY

Loda B. Lepley, 61, Locust Grove, well-known plumber, died in Memorial hospital at 3:40 p. m. yesterday. He had been a patient there since October 13.

A native of Pennsylvania, Mr. Lepley was a son of John and Rachael McNeil Lepley. He was a member of First Methodist church, Cumberland Lodge, No. 60, Knights of Pythias; Wabash Temple, No. 237, Dramatic Order Knights of Khorasan; Cumberland Lodge, No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose; and the Plumbers and Steamfitters Local Union, No. 489.

Surviving are his widow, Pleasant Anderson Lepley; five daughters, Mrs. Ida Virginia Elsager, Cumberland; Mrs. Annabelle Corrigan, Midland; Mrs. Cleo E. Hite, Bedford Valley, Pa.; Mrs. Mary A. Williams, Sykesville; Mrs. Ruth E. Thrasher, Cumberland; three sons, Stewart A. Lepley, United States Merchant Marine, in foreign waters; Ralph E. Lepley, Cumberland; and Thomas E. Lepley, at home.

Eight brothers, George, Cumberland; Calvin, Bladensburg, Pa.; Malin, Wisconsin; Dalton, Barrelville; Roy, Cumberland; Elliot, West Virginia; and Robert and Lewis E. Lepley, Corriganville; and two sisters, Hazel and Edna, Corriganville, also survive as well as four-teen grandchildren.

The body is at the Wolford funeral home.

MRS. ANGUS IRELAND

Mrs. Mabel Glisan Ireland, 68, wife of Angus Ireland, Baltimore, and formerly of Cumberland, died late yesterday afternoon at her home. She had been in failing health.

A native of Cumberland, Mrs. Ireland was a daughter of the late William R. and Anzina Harper Glisan. She was a member of Central Methodist church, Cumberland.

For sixteen years, Mrs. Ireland's husband was clerk to the Allegheny County Commissioners and in 1924 he and Mrs. Ireland moved to Baltimore when he accepted a position in the Customs House there.

Surviving besides her husband is a brother, Howard W. Glisan, Cumberland.

Transportation

to eight per cent increase in freight traffic in the next six months, and of fifteen to twenty per cent in passenger traffic, every man, woman and child having to do with transportation in the United States can help in solving the problem.

The Office of Defense Transportation is calling upon the carriers, who are now handling the largest volume of traffic in their history, to make a further ten per cent improvement in transportation efficiency, saying that transportation must not fail.

Dusenberry said stores and other receivers of freight must be willing to accept freight at all times and not restrict acceptances to certain days of the week, including Saturdays, as some do, in order to keep freight houses open for the prompt receipt and dispatch of freight, avoiding the usual weekend accumulations.</

Tomorrow is a lovely Word

SYNOPSIS
Roommates and cousins, BETH KINNAN, serious-minded and trusting, and ANDREA BARNES, rather self-centered and selfish, find that the tenseness accompanying America's impending entrance into the war is beginning to affect their lives. For three years Beth has been going with JIM RONALD, who still has not been too successful in getting ahead in the world, while Andrea has been attracted by DENNIS ARCHER, 15 years her senior, but wealthy and interesting—and also married.

CHAPTER TEN
Her back and her arms ached, but Beth felt her spirits lighter than they had been since November, and she sang as she slid the freshly laundered curtains over a rod and climbed up on the telephone table to hang them. Then she got down again, rubbing her back, and stood off to observe the effect of the curtains.

They hung in points here and there, but at least they were clean and fresh, like the skirts of the dressing table which she'd washed the day before. She dropped on the bed and cast a housewife's eye over as much of the apartment as she could see. Everything was spotless. The floors had a fluffed, clean look, as well they might. For one whole week Beth Kinnan, late a secretary, had turned herself into a slave. Her reasons had been two: by keeping herself occupied and tiring herself out with manual labor, she was able to keep her excitement under control, and the other reason was that Peg Woodruff was coming to dinner. Peg loomed large in Beth's plans. Incidentally, which she was keeping entirely to herself.

She got herself collected from the bed, bathed and dressed and went into the kitchen to begin getting dinner. Andrea came in as Beth was basting a roast chicken and took an ecstatic sniff. "Wow, Beth! We never had anything like this when you were working. How much longer does the vacation last?"

Beth practically hid her face in the oven. "I expect to be going to work soon."

Andrea picked up a carrot to nibble on. "You haven't even started looking for a job... See you've done the bedroom curtains. Are we having mashed potatoes?"

"First you get your rating, Miss Kinnan," the clerk told her. "And 'And broccoli.' Beth said, as the door bell rang. "That'll be Peg."

"Oh, boy," Peg said, stretching out on the sofa after their meal. "What a change this is from my boarding house! You haven't got room for one more here, have you?"

Beth swallowed guiltily, cast a wary look in Andrea's direction, and said, "Suppose I couldn't get a job here. I mean if I got a job somewhere else... I mean, maybe you and Andy would live together."

Peg closed her eyes happily. "I'd do three-quarters of the work for the privilege," she announced. "Just say the word."

Andrea said, "What are you getting at, Beth? You and I not live together? Why, we... we're pork and beans, April and showers, Christmas and New Years. We've always been together!"

"I know," Beth said, evading a direct glance at her, "but you'll be getting married soon maybe and I... I have to get a job and support myself and..."

And then the bell rang and it was a friend of Andrea's who had come in to play bridge. So Beth didn't have to answer any more questions for which she was greatly relieved.

She had it all planned. Just the way she would do it. First there would be the news—probably by telegram the commission told her in the post office—and then she'd show it to Andrea and tell her how she wanted to do something useful and Andrea would be sure to see it that way, and then she'd remind Andrea that Peg wanted to come and live with her, and say that they could always see each other.

And that way she would get away from Andrea would never know that it was just because she didn't want to see Jim. Maybe later when they were married—and she sometimes thought of what the judge had said to her on his deathbed about other men in other places—she wouldn't ache over Jim any more.

So the first week went by, and then the second, and Beth began to jump toward the telephone when it rang, and to be awake an hour before the postman made his first call, but there was no news, and she knew she'd have to start looking for another job.

Sometimes she wondered what would happen if she took her money and went to Boston or New York and tried to live on it until she got a job. But she wouldn't think of that until she heard from Washington.

In June the poster in the post office mocked her when she went in to the Civil Service commission. To see why there had been no news. "First you get your rating, Miss Kinnan," the clerk told her. "And then when there's a job they send for you."

"But I thought they needed girls. I can't wait forever."

"Have to wait your turn. Things are moving fast some ways and slow in others down there. Know a congressman?"

Beth said she didn't and was told to sit tight, eventually she'd be sent for.

"Eventually" wouldn't be time enough. Beth began her rounds of employment offices, of department stores, everywhere except to the Archer Mills, and what kept her from that, she couldn't have told you.

The rent had to be paid the third week of her idleness and so she had to take $30 from her precious fund, and she had to take out money for car fare and lunches, and for all that Andrea protested, she insisted on paying her half of the food bill.

Then the fourth week, when Washington was so busy getting its alphabetical bureaus organized without benefit of her stenographic help, she heard there was a job as a typist at the First National bank and went there prepared to take anything she could get.

At the bank she was told to wait to see a Mr. Simmons, so she sat herself on a chair outside the rail which divided the lobby from the public privacy that is peculiar to bank officials. Mr. Simmons was talking to a tall gentleman in a white linen suit, and when he rose to leave, Beth thought the banker beckoned for her to come in.

She was a little flustered and so managed to bump squarely into the man in the white suit.

"Sorry," each muttered to the other.

Then he said, "Why, it's Miss Kinnan."

Mr. Simmons said, "Please wait outside, miss... I'll call you when I'm ready."

Beth felt herself flush, like a charity case being told to wait its turn, and when Dennis said, "So we share the same bank?" she said, "Not yet. You probably own it. I'm just here hoping to get a job."

"You're a secretary, aren't you?" Dennis asked, leading her away from the rail.

She nodded. "I was. My employer, Judge Mayfield, died last month. I... I've been hoping to get something in Washington. I was told they're badly in need of secretarial help there, but I... I guess I have to wait for them to get around to me."

"Washington?" Dennis snapped his fingers. "You mean you want to pull up stake and go there?"

She nodded. "I thought I'd like to get out and see something of the world besides Pennington, but I guess that was an idle... She cast an anxious look over her shoulder at Mr. Simmons, who was now dictating to a stenographer.

Then to her utter amazement,

Dennis was taking her hand and leading her out of the bank.

Once outside he let her hand go and took her elbow. "If you still want to go to Washington, young lady, I believe I can do something about it. If I can catch Henry Slade at the Quinapac club."

Beth, experiencing a few of the thrills of being on a merry-go-round, asked, "Who is Henry Slade?"

"Friend of mine from Washington. His secretary's got married, and he's high and dry for help. Interested?"

"Oh, please!" she said. "Let's hurry. You don't know what it would mean to me!"

Top Yankee Pilot Reveals Ambitions

VELLA LAVELLA, SOLOMONS, Nov. 5 (Delayed) (P)—Capt. Jim Sweet, of the marine corps declares shooting down fifteen Japanese planes is just incidental to his main ambitions, which are, in chronological order:

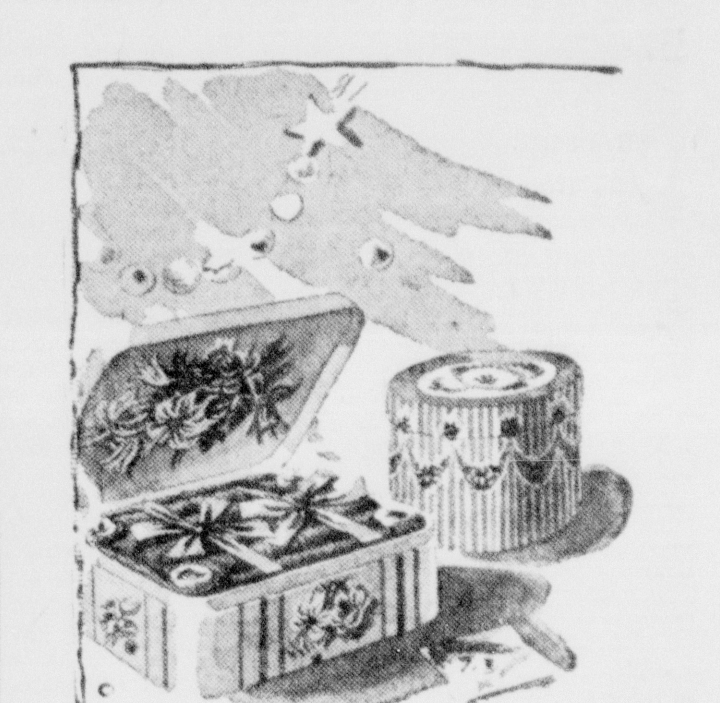

- (1) Finish this war with a whole skin.
- (2) Take a job in his dad's business in San Mateo, Calif.
- (3) Marry Lois Anderson of Oakland.

Sweet, whose fifteen bull's eyes make him the top pilot in these parts, is quiet, cool and unassuming. He literally skyrocketed to fame in one day, last April 4, by bagging eight enemy dive bombers in a furious fight over Tulagi in the Solomons.

Sweet remembers that day vividly. "I was scared to death," he said.

Wilmington, Del., is preparing now for construction of a municipal recreation center after the war.

The Senate Action On World Peace

ACTION of the Senate at Washington in passing a resolution by the overwhelming vote of 85 to 5 favoring the establishment of an international organization for the maintenance of peace and security, including the declarations of the historical Moscow conference, is not only a reflection of general American sentiment, but it also substantiates the foresighted and forthright declaration of Republicans in their Mackinac Island conference, from which this resolution, the House Fulbright resolution and the Moscow parley actually stem.

The resolution is significant for its recognition of the sovereignty of the participating nations, for its praiseworthy cautious reference to the kind of international organization for the maintenance of peace and for the added notation as to the actual meaning of the operation of "constitutional processes."

As for the generality respecting the world peace organization, particularly the use of the word "power," which could mean any of a number of things or combination of them, instead of the word "force," the Senate is on solid ground for, as the Mackinac Island declaration set forth, a detailed program and specific commitments for the accomplishment of the great objectives would be impractical and unwise at this time by the nation (as well as the party). This is for the obvious reason that none can foretell the conditions resulting from the war upon which the organization must to a large degree depend.

As for the added notation that "any treaty made to effect the purposes of this resolution on behalf of the government of the United States with any other nation or any association of nations (the words italicized here are important) shall be made only by and with the advice and consent of the Senate of the United States, provided two-thirds of the senators present concur."

Now there are some who point out that this is rank surplusage. For instance, the New York Herald Tribune, whose concern for the sovereignty of this nation in a world organization has been somewhat dubious, says it is meaningless.

"This impressive parade of verbiage," it says, "declares that in the opinion of the Senate the constitution of the United States is the constitution of the United States. It says exactly nothing else whatever; it even succeeds in saying this nothing twice over. The clause is totally without effect of any kind, for the constitution would still be in force even if the Senate did not think so; treaties, in order to be treaties, would still require Senate ratification; while even if the Senate wished to limit the present ability of the executive to enter into lesser agreements, exchanges of notes and so on, it would be powerless to do so by resolution. Aside from the president's constitutional authority to conduct foreign relations, the Senate alone cannot enact legislation. The clause reflects simply a touch of senatorial megalomania amid the confusion of words in which the debate has been conducted. But if it makes some of the gentlemen happy no one can possibly object to it."

Nevertheless, this declaration is impressively meaningful. It gives notice to the administration and to the world that no attempt to dodge around constitutional processes through the formation of "agreements" to take the place of treaties will be tolerated. It would be unnecessary, perhaps, if the Washington administration had not already attempted to effect pacts and treaties with other nations under the guise of "agreements" and its studied attempts to do so in pending proposals. It is for this reason that the words italicized in the foregoing properly and specifically gives notice that the only way the objective is to be attained is by the constitutional processes and in the manner specified.

That is, as the Herald Tribune admits, the law of the land and it should be followed. Some may believe the decision on a peace organization should not rest with the two-thirds vote of the Senate but should be more representative of popular judgment through a concurrent resolution of both houses adopted by a majority vote of each. But it seems quite unlikely that any change in our constitution could be effected for that, however desirable, in time for the world peace set-up. In the meantime, the organic law being what it is, it should by all means be observed meticulously in such a grave undertaking.

The Money Surplus Of the People

ONE of the things emphasized in his splendid address before the Women's Republican Club of Cumberland by Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., in which this newspaper believes millions of citizens heartily concur, was his declaration that it is a good thing for the people of this country to have some money in their pockets and in their savings instead of having it all siphoned away by the government as the present administration is striving to do.

"I am not afraid," Martin said, "to trust the great majority of the people to spend wisely. The average citizen knows he will need a little surplus cash in the postwar days. He will pay off his mortgage and liquidate his debts. The average business concern with a little surplus will use this money in getting back to a peacetime basis. The spending of these concerns will give people jobs at American wages."

Precisely. This is exactly what this newspaper has been preaching for a long time. It has so declared particularly with the administration's greedy eyeing of the savings of the people and its efforts to siphon them off under the excuse of preventing inflation.

Now, as this newspaper has heretofore declared, this money saved by the people cannot be expected to be showered around for unnecessary purchases. If such were the case, it would long ago have been spent. If people with money in the bank were foolish spenders, they wouldn't have the money there. The type of person who lays aside some money for the proverbial rainy day is not the type to go on a reckless spending spree just for the fun of it.

No, there need be no worry about inflationary spending by the thrifty. Instead of trying to wring their savings from them, the administration backers of that theory would do better, as Representative Martin pointed out, to encourage them in their thrift and similarly to get a little of it into government.

This newspaper has heretofore observed that all this worry about people having too much money in their savings accounts "is the result either of the senseless spending idea so long exploited in Washington or a sly effort of those in public authority to get their hands on more of it." And Representative Martin took note of the latter by pointing out that it represents the studied effort to enforce some sort of state socialism through bureaucratic control, of which latter goodness knows we have had a surfeit plenty, and he is right about that.

The Willful By-Passing Of Congress Continues

SENATOR BYRD, of Virginia, in renewing the attack against costly food subsidies, charged that government agencies are by-passing Congress by continuing the payment of them without congressional consent.

The senator pointed to the dairy food subsidy as "a glaring example of the kind of payment from the treasury that Congress never authorized, and which Congress definitely opposes." He also served notice that he would investigate the extent to which the Commodity Credit Corporation and other government corporations "are paying money out of the treasury without specific approval of Congress."

It thus appears that the administration is still obsessed with its spending mania and purposes to indulge in it regardless of Congress, just as it continues to issue administrative "directives" for which no congressional authority has been given. It is high time this stubborn misuse of authority and senseless squandering are stopped and its users of the people's money are put into bounds. Unless it is, we shall not only face fiscal disaster but, as one observer notes, we shall be going down the road to destruction of representative government. It is just such irresponsibility that prompted the Senate, despite the lilies of some critics, to serve notice about constitutional processes in the peace organization movement.

No Child in the House

By MARSHALL MASLIN

They thought: "We need a rest. We'll send the youngster to his grandmother and then there will be Heavenly Peace in the house. We'll do as we please and be free for a week or two. We'll enjoy life without responsibility."

So they did. They sent him away. And for two or three days it was just as they thought it would be—Heavenly Peace and Quiet. They went where and when they wanted to go, all by themselves, and worried about nothing. When they put things away, they stayed there. . . . The house was immaculate and remained so. Meals were orderly. Nobody had to say: "Tommy, your father is talking, don't interrupt. Tommy, don't speak when your mouth is full. Tommy, wash your hands. Tommy, wash your neck. Tommy, did you scrub your teeth. Tommy, it's time to go to bed."

Gen. Marshall Is Named To Offset MacArthur Boom

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—When the politically-minded nowadays get low in spirits about the outlook of their party, they invariably bring up the name of a military man as a possible candidate for the presidency.

For many months, those Republicans who have despaired of winning the 1944 election, if the war were still on and President Roosevelt were running for a fourth term, have suggested Gen. Douglas MacArthur for the Republican presidential nomination.

Now with the results of last Tuesday's elections to bother them, Democrats are talking about the possibility of turning the trend that appears to have set in against them and they think maybe Gen. George C. Marshall should be drafted as the Democratic presidential nominee.

The suggestion about Gen. Marshall has been made publicly by Senator Edwin Johnson, Democrat, of Colorado, but he is by no means the first to have had that thought. Gen. Marshall's remarkable personality, his quiet and unostentatious efficiency and his splendid grasp of world problems apart from so much to folks in Washington that his name has been heard often in the private conversations of the politically minded as a possible presidential nominee of either party.

Embarrassment for Marshall

Gen. Marshall himself is doubtless going to be embarrassed by the public discussion which the Colorado senator has started and the general will certainly do everything he can properly do to squelch it, which isn't very much, because there is no law against political conversation and no way by which a general can refuse to accept a nomination that may never be tendered him.

It is sufficient to say that Gen. Marshall has no political ambition and that his greatest desire is to lead our forces to victory.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur is in the same boat. He, too, has no political ambition though unfriendly critics have tried to read something of that kind into his public statements on war matters. Here, too, we have a military man of striking personality but a man whose name is being used without the slightest encouragement on his part.

Not Based on Fondness

Both Generals Marshall and MacArthur can rest assured that it is not out of any particular fondness for them that the booms are being started. Rather it is the effort to bolster drooping political fortunes in each case which sets the gossip going.

The moment it becomes apparent, for example, to the political leaders in the Republican ranks that the tide in their favor is strong enough to bring victory in 1944 they will turn to the civilian side for a nominee and the easier the contest appears to be the less capable a man they will choose. The old saying that when party victory is assured anybody can be nominated and win governed the thinking of the Republicans in 1920 and they gave the nation Warren Harding.

The Democrats, on the other hand, are by no means convinced as yet that they need to give up the magic charm of the Roosevelt name at the top of the ticket. Senator Johnson is an anti-New Dealer and unquestionably the antipathy to the New Deal throughout American is growing stronger every day that the arrogant and capricious-minded bureaucrats make a greater and greater mess of constitutional law and fundamental principles of government. But President Roosevelt is represented as turning now toward the southern Democrats and conservatives in his party in an effort to

RECLASSIFIED

PRENTISS W. EVANS, state attorney of Somerset county, has been reclassified 1-A and soon will be called for induction in the armed forces, his Washington (D. C.) draft board announced. Evans, a former federal employee in Washington, has been classified 4-B, reserved for elected public officials, when he was appointed state's attorney, the draft board said. Evans said it would be "up to my successor to determine what action to take in a criminal libel indictment pending against Rives Matthews, Princess Anne editor and publisher. Matthews' trial, scheduled for the October court term, was postponed to April by agreement of attorneys."

THE START OF A NEW GOLD RUSH

Smashing of the Fourth Term Is Seen By Mallon in Analysis of Voting Trend

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—I asked a Kentucky friend of mine who is the best possible authority on the people if he did not think the astonishing success of a Republican gubernatorial candidate in that most stronghold of the administration of the New Deal, the state which has two Democratic senators, one of the administration leaders in the Senate.

"The people are changing over," he replied. Jim Farley had it about right in his comment on the defeat of his Democratic candidate in New York when he said the people were tired and dissatisfied with what they have been getting."

The country, too, is changing over. The local results everywhere cannot be satisfactorily explained in any other way. The successful Kentucky Republican, Simeon S. Willis, is what is known in politics as "a good man." He is the elderly Kentucky gentleman type, a former judge, honest, friendly.

Little Money Available

In the past, the far distant past, when the Republicans wanted to win that border state, they had to put in plenty of money. Willis had no money, at least not of that size. The big money people did not shell out for him, probably were not asked to.

Mr. Willis just ambled around the state, seeing people. As they say in the mountains, he let the people "get the feel of him." They got to know him.

The administration rushed every one of its national powers from Kentucky into the threatened final breach. Senate Leader Barkley and the recently cantankerous Happy Chandler spent the last three weeks before election on the formerly dark and bloody ground. Some Kentuckians think this was a mistake, too.

Mr. Roosevelt once spoke in Kentucky against Chandler in the early New Deal days when Happy was trying to crash the gate of big league politics and establish the gubernatorial machine he has enjoyed up until last Tuesday. The Democratic candidate was a Chandler man, J. Lyter Donaldson.

Chandler is one of the senators who returned from a world tour recently, with advice for changes in administration world policy which were sharply and publicly rejected by the White House.

Unharmonious Bedfellows

When he and Barkley rushed back to Kentucky to get into bed together with Donaldson and call for upholding the president, apparently they did not appear to a majority of the voters to be very harmonious bedfellows, but rather just tentatively congenial. Donaldson has been described as an ordinary gubernatorial candidate.

In view of this background, the explanation of Democratic National Chairman Frank Walker that the scattered elections results did not involve national issues and had no national significance, was somewhat lacking, if not sad.

The Republicans have won before recently in New York, New Jersey, Philadelphia, but not by majorities of last Tuesday. The results indicate

Lewis Is Stronger Than Government, Mark Sullivan Says

By MARK SULLIVAN

What is here set down is a statement of the small number of concrete facts and conditions about the coal strike—and especially by manner of its ending.

Last week, some eight million Americans were under arms, many of them abroad, in actual combat against the enemy. In this condition, another group of Americans, some half million in number, the members of Mr. John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers, were on strike. By their strike, they were interrupting the supplies upon which our soldiers depend, without which they cannot fight, by lack of which the war will be prolonged.

To state the same condition from another point of view: On the very day of winter, with the supply of coal already short, with deprivation of fuel already certain, the production of coal was interrupted by a strike. The strike was not against the owners of coal mines—it was against the government of the United States.

Humiliating Surrender

The strike was ended by surrender of the government, a surrender under circumstances that made it humiliating.

The government—through one of its agencies, the War Labor Board, and also through the head of government, President Roosevelt—has laid down as a principle that a labor dispute would be settled when a strike was on; that return of strikers to work must be a prerequisite of settlement. The principle, as once stated by a member of the Labor Board, was that the government of the United States may not be put under duress, that the government would never yield to a gun held at its head. This principle the government last week surrendered.

The surrender led one member of the Labor Board, Mr. Wayne L. Morse, to dissent. Mr. Morse, in his support of principle, said the agreement composing the surrender "was negotiated under stress of a strike . . . was dictated at the point of a strike weapon."

"Device" and "Double Cross"

The surrender was accompanied, by in part accomplished by, what the New York Times calls a "device," and the Washington Post describes by the more vernacular form, "double cross." The War Labor Board had officially declared that a certain item of the increase in pay demanded by Mr. Lewis, amounting to twenty-seven and one-half cents a day, would be more than the board is able to approve under the . . . act of Congress . . . Immediately afterward President Roosevelt put the case in the hands of another government agency, Secretary of the Interior Ickes. Thereupon Mr. Ickes granted the increase which the War Labor Board had denied. Justification for the increase was put on a ground which caused the cynics to smile: "The prevailing customary thirty minute lunch period hereby reduced to fifteen minutes, and the miners agree to work said additional fifteen minutes . . ."

Short Lunch Not Expected

Neither cynics nor serious persons believe that to practice the miners actually will—or in such an arduous occupation can—be expected to eat their lunch in fifteen minutes.

Transferring the case from one government agency to another, he calls another surrender of the administration to Mr. Lewis, accompanied by the same maneuver. In 1941 Mr. Lewis was demanding a closed shop. President Roosevelt declared that he would never grant a closed shop, and that Congress would never enact one. The predecessor of the present War Labor Board, the old Labor Mediation Board, denied the closed shop. Subsequently Mr. Roosevelt turned the case over to an arbitration board which gave Mr. Lewis the closed shop.

Lewis More Powerful

In the long struggle between Mr. Lewis and the government—in last part a personal controversy between Mr. Lewis and Mr. Roosevelt—Mr. Lewis has won, completely and absolutely. That he is more powerful than the government is proved not merely by the government's present surrender. It is proved, in a most direct way, in two incidents of the recent past of the struggle. Twice President Roosevelt has issued a command that should not go on strike, on a late occasion that they should cease striking. Both times, the miners did not obey the president of the United States in similar commands—Mr. Lewis issued similar commands—and the miners obeyed the last leader.

By showing himself more powerful than the government, Mr. Lewis, of course, becomes the most powerful labor leader in the country. Other labor leaders, in order to hold their followings, will be obliged to imitate him.

Morning Motto

There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune; omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and in miseries; and we must catch the current when it serves, or just our ventures.—SHAKESPEARE.

WIFE OF NITRO CARPENTER TELLS OF WORLD'S TONIC RELIEF

23 Year Resident Says, "I Felt Awful. I Was Weak And Run Down, My Appetite and Digestion Seemed Gone and I Felt Nervous and Jittery"

Mrs. Jessie Owsley, 1023 Tenth St., Nitro, near Charleston, W. Va., says:

"You can just bet I'll be careful about occasional constipation from now on. This condition brought on so many ailments that I was feeling pretty blue. Gas, bloating, acid belching and sour stomach distressed me after eating. Bileous spells brought dizziness and spots before my eyes and were often followed by nervous headaches. Rheumatic-like misery made my joints stiff and sore. My digestion and appetite were so poor that I was under weight."

"Since World's Tonic brought such relief from constipation and the ailments it caused, my digestion and appetite are so much better that I have already gained some badly needed pounds. The miseries are not coming on so, in my joints and the dizzy bileous spells seem about over with. I'm not suffering, so, after meals with gas, bloating, acid belching and sour stomach. The nervousness and tired feeling seem down away with and my sleep at night is long and sound."

World's Tonic contains old world roots and herbs from lands where many of us and most of our ancestors originated.

Three Divorce Suits
Filed in Court Here

Suits for divorce were begun in three bills of complaint docketed in circuit court yesterday.

On charges of infidelity and desertion, Kathleen G. Goetz filed suit for absolute divorce against William F. Goetz. Mrs. Goetz alleges that she always had to work to support both herself and her husband, but she was now unemployed. They were married in 1935 and lived together until October of this year. They had no children. Mrs. Goetz asks that the defendant be required to pay counsel fees and contribute to her support.

A court order, signed by Associate Judge William A. Huster, directed Goetz to pay $12 weekly to his wife as alimony pending final settlement of the suit and $40 counsel fees. Edwin M. Horcher is attorney for the plaintiff.

After being married for twenty-four years, Ida B. Brotemarkle filed suit for absolute divorce against Robert A. Brotemarkle whom she charges deserted her in 1931. They had been married in 1919, and had two children, one of whom is now in the armed forces. Wilbur V. Wilson is counsel for Mrs. Brotemarkle.

Suit for divorce was also filed by Elton Jackson against Glenn E. Jackson. Edward J. Ryan is counsel for the plaintiff.

TIRE RECORD GOES WITH AUTOMOBILE IN CASE OF SALE

Motorists who sell their automobiles must see that the new owner receives the tire record. Karl W. Radcliffe, chief clerk of War Price and Rationing Board No. 1-1, said yesterday.

Although the tire record goes with the car, Radcliffe said, the "A" gasoline ration book must be turned in to the rationing board for a receipt in every case.

In event the motorist who sells his car purchases another machine immediately, he should take the ration book issued for the former car to the rationing board, turn it in and receive a new one. The transfer will be made immediately.

If a new car is not purchased right away, Radcliffe explained, the ration book must be turned in for a receipt. The receipt must be kept until another car is purchased when it can be exchanged for another ration book.

This rationing procedure will be religiously followed, Radcliffe declared.

Many Persons Continue To Apply for War
Ration Book Four

Clerks at War Price and Rationing Board No. 1-1 have been rushed with applicants for War Ration Book No. 4 since last Wednesday when the books were first issued at the board's office in the Union Street school building.

Evidently many residents of Allegheny county failed to apply for the books during the three day registration in the public schools over a week ago, Karl W. Radcliffe, chief clerk said.

An average of eighty-two books a day were issued Wednesday, Thursday and Friday afternoons last week when residents were allowed to apply from 1 to 3:30 p. m., according to Radcliffe.

Yesterday, seventy-five books were issued in the same brief period and an additional fifty more were sent out by mail.

No Need for Canes
At Service Hospitals,
Red Cross Announces

According to word received by the local chapter of the American Red Cross from Frederic S. Lase, regional director in the eastern area, there is no need for canes for hospitalized service men as erroneously announced recently and citizens in this area are asked to refrain from bringing them into the local office.

Although the local office appreciates the spirit behind the contributions, it has been informed from the military and naval welfare service that there is no need for canes at this time. The previous announcement had been made erroneously throughout the country when a field director stated unofficially that a few canes could be used.

Youth Rally Pictures

Ethel Bush Will Become the Bride Of Donald Goodwin

The engagement of Miss Ethel Claudine Bush to Lieut. Donald R. Goodwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Goodwin, Hyndman, Pa., has been announced by Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bush, Hyndman, parents of the bride-elect.

Miss Bush is a graduate of Hyndman high school and attended Catherman's Business school. She is now employed on the staff of the Celanese Corporation of America.

Lieut. Goodwin is also a graduate of Hyndman high school, and last spring graduated from the University of Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh, Pa., as a chemical engineer. He has been stationed at Camp Davis, N. C., since graduation and left last evening for his new station with the anti-aircraft artillery at Camp Bliss, Texas, after spending a week's furlough here.

No date has been announced for the wedding.

Davis Memorial W.S.C.S. Will Meet

The Women's Society of Christian Service of Davis Memorial church will entertain with a luncheon at 12 o'clock tomorrow in honor of the mothers and wives of men in service. Mrs. Robert Young, president, invites all women in the community to attend.

The Rev. William A. Eisenberger, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will be guest speaker and will talk on his experiences as a camp pastor last summer.

The monthly business session will follow the luncheon with Mrs. Young presiding.

Guild Will Meet

The Guild of Emmanuel Episcopal church will be heard at 11:45 o'clock, before the luncheon today in the parish house.

The change of schedule was arranged to enable the women of the church to attend the funeral at 2 o'clock of the Rev. Joshua Whaling, Frostburg, former rector of Emmanuel church.

It may be a danger sign WHEN YOU CAN'T GET YOUR CHILD TO EAT!

Does your youngster just "pick" at his food? Does he push it away before it's half eaten? Then be on your guard. Mother! . . . Loss of appetite, when accompanied by paleness, weakness and lack of pep, is often a warning that the blood is low in iron! And that's something that can lead to more serious trouble.

So start building up your child's blood strength right away! Give him good old Gude's Pepto-Mangan—that reliable time-tested iron tonic which has proved its benefits for more than 50 years.

Pepto-Mangan helps make the blood redder and richer in iron! Many doctors prescribe Pepto-Mangan for rundown and growing children who need more iron to help them get back their strength and pep, their appetites and rosy cheeks.

Pleasant to take. Sold by all druggists with a money-back guarantee of satisfaction! Ask for the original and only Gude's Pepto-Mangan!

Merchant Marine Is Pack Mule of World War II

CONVOY FOR VICTORY. Merchant seamen man the ships that supply the United States and its Allies.

By CHARLES A. GRUMICH, AP Features
WITH THE U. S. MERCHANT MARINE—Weeks of voyaging over

WHY THOUSANDS OF DOCTORS PRESCRIBED THIS FOR

Bad Coughs
(DUE TO COLDS)

When thousands upon thousands of Doctors have prescribed Pertussin to relieve such coughing—it MUST be good! Pertussin—a famous herbal cough remedy—not only relieves your coughing spell, but also loosens and makes phlegm easier to raise. Safe and effective for both old and young. Inexpensive! PERTUSSIN—All drugstores.

They truck the heaviest tools of war to the battlezones far from their home shores and set up the material fronts for the armed forces spread over the world.

But as with the unsung football linemen there is no spectacular result for them, there are no headlines, there is no glamour for the merchant seaman who plods, usually, at irksome conveyance to deliver the goods for victory.

First Hand View
In traveling by ship for weeks to a destination which could be reached by air in a matter of days I was given an opportunity to get a first-hand view of the operations. Thanks to the uplifting of merchant marine conditions generally in the campaign begun before the war by the United States Maritime Commission and the added incentives of attractive though perilous wartime services, the average officer in the "trucking navy" is schooled to a fine degree of skill and fired by an ambition for self-improvement which can be gratified as quickly as he is ready.

He is entitled to wear the uniform comparable with that worn by his opposite number in the Navy proper, but he usually is shy about putting on any front when going ashore unless the occasion calls for such distinction.

No Formality
Aboard a merchant ship there is a minimum of formality, and the discipline generally is less rigid than in the regular Navy. The food, once so notoriously poor that cases bore the label "For Merchant Marine Consumption Only," now probably is the best set out anywhere on land or sea. At a port far distant from New York I encountered an army major in the corps of engineers who pointedly made as many business calls as possible aboard ships from America in order to be invited to the officers' mess.

Among the men, improvement of rank is the watchword, and many of the hours of watch are spent at cracking the books as well as improving the technique of poker playing.

Each cadet—there are four aboard this ship—has the rank of midship-

Truancy Increasing In Baltimore Schools

BALTIMORE, Nov. 8 (AP)—War plants aren't the only ones bothered with absenteeism—the Baltimore public schools claimed the same trouble today.

The effects of war are responsible for a marked increase in truancy among pupils, John H. Fisher, director of school attendance, reported.

This situation, said Fisher, stems directly from the war and its effects on family life, overcrowding, transportation difficulties and the desire of school children to go to work.

However, school authorities were not worried about students who have part time jobs. Those who hold such jobs are wary of reporting to work without attending classes as a close check is being made by truanties, it was reported.

The tutelage is not confined to these seasons, but is carried out at any hour when a cadet wants to call on an officer for an explanation of some part of the course which must be absorbed in months where it took years before.

In one month during the spring of 1943, the Ordnance department, Army Service Forces, produced three times as much artillery for ground troops as was turned out during the whole nineteen months of war in 1917-17.

Army's Navy Rescues Air Corps

MAN ABOARD: Lifted from life raft in Thompson basket.
By ELLIOTT CHAZE
AP Features

NEW ORLEANS — The skipper said a heap could be learned about the air force rescue work by simply diving overboard and awaiting developments. So someone jumped in.

One of the army air force maritime school boats wheeled in a swift dive to make the pickup, stilled its engines, and came alongside in a smooth glide.

Two men lowered in a life raft carried across their knees a Thompson life basket made of wire mesh, scooped the swimmer into the basket. He was hoisted aboard by hand lines. The entire operation took slightly more than 15 minutes.

The Thompson basket has proved invaluable. It is so shaped that by adjustment of certain straps, it can serve as a split for any part of the body but the arms and can also be used as a cot.

Rescue boats and combat boats are used to intercept enemy craft which try to kidnap our pilots who hit the water overseas. These knife-edged combat craft are heavily armed for their forty-two-foot length. They are manned by a crew of tommy gun and judo experts skilled in boarding enemy boats for cleanup action. And who carry knives and sidearms as well as the machine guns, and use grappling hooks to make things chum-mier if the enemy objects. Although the army is training its own men with boating experience at various bases, this two-month-old school is the only one turning out complete combat crews which can be shipped intact overseas.

Major Gen. Walter H. Frank expects the outfit to get its biggest workout during the Jap showdown, when inter-island warfare is expected to lean toward small boat strategy.

Sen. Reynolds Plans To Retire Next Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8 (AP)—Robert Rice Reynolds, chairman of the Senate Military committee, formally announced tonight his decision to retire from the Senate when his present term expires at the end of 1944.

Asserting he will not be a candidate for renomination in the North Carolina Democratic primary next year, the 57-year-old opponent of administration foreign policy declared:

"While I shall not be a candidate in the Democratic primary of 1944, I wish to state emphatically that I am not retiring from public life.

"I shall at all times, not only during the balance of my present term in the Senate of the United States, but thereafter, continue to champion those principles which I have always felt were to the best interests of my state and my country."

By packing machine guns in pairs instead of one to a box, the Army has effected a saving of thirty-five per cent in shipping space.

Incubator Eagle Is a Lazy Egg

SMOKEY makes a two-claw landing on the upraised gloved hand of her foster-mother, Verna Mace.

BOULDER, Colo.—Malcolm Jollie the American golden eagle, says there may be a sermon, of a Smokey comes from a fabulous sort, in the story of his Smokey, breed; in its natural state the American golden eagle is about the most ferocious thing on wings, legs, or fins.

"But in captivity Smokey has become the laziest thing that ever shook a tail feather," says Jollie.

Smokey is perhaps the world's only incubator golden eagle. Jollie, a graduate student at Colorado University, and Verna Mace, another student, captured the golden eagle when she was but an egg in a nest high in the pinnacles of a front range cliff of the Rocky Mountains. The egg was taken by the two students to Boulder and placed in an incubator to hatch. That was more than five months ago.

Smokey was reared, delicately, by hand. She's been fed by Jollie and Miss Mace ever since she was born. Recently she has been turned loose for exercise.

"Instead of soaring ecstatically over the foothills, for hours at a time, as you would imagine she would want to do, she takes a five minute flight and then perches in a tree," says Jollie.

"That's the signal that she's all through flying for the day. She won't even try to catch her own food. She waits to be fed."

SUNOCO

DYNAFUEL

A SUPER AVIATION FUEL CONCENTRATE

50% more powerful than U. S. standard 100-octane test fuel

One reason for Allied mastery of the skies is the superiority of the fighting fuel that powers our planes.

Millions of gallons are being made every week by Sunoco. This huge quantity and the high quality of our output are made possible largely by Dynafuel, an exclusive development of Sunoco engineers and chemists.

50% More Power than U. S. Standard 100-Octane Test Fuel

Sunoco Dynafuel is more than a gasoline; it's a super aviation fuel concentrate which tests 50% higher in power than U. S. standard 100-octane test fuel! That is because Dynafuel contains a larger percentage of certain ingredients which have extraordinary power-producing qualities.

Increases Quality and Quantity

Dynafuel is never used undiluted, but is blended with gasolines produced by other methods, in order to step up their quality.

The Dynafuel Process also increases quantity—because it utilizes even those portions of the crude which formerly went only into low-grade fuels.

A Triumph of Private Initiative

Dynafuel was developed by Sunoco without government aid or subsidy. The company risked its own capital, its own credit, in order to pay the huge costs of building the plants for its production.

It is through such free play of private initiative that all American progress has been achieved.

Opens Up a New Future for Motorists

Dynafuel is not now available for civilians. Every drop is reserved for military needs. But just imagine what this super fuel will mean to future motor car development! The same processes and equipment which have contributed so importantly to the war may well revolutionize post-war travel, both on the highways and skyways of America.

Marine Once Taught Mikado How To Play Poker--For a "Fee"

By Central Press
CHARLESTON, S. C.—A bushy-browed Marine sergeant major of twenty-six years' service circa the Halls of Montezuma and the Shores of Tripoli — a tough-and-ready fighting man who can sport across his blouse nine medals and four extra bars, including the highest decoration of the Chinese Army—reared back in his chair in the Charleston Navy Yard Marine barracks today and opined that of all the distinctions he'd seen the oddest by far was that time back in Tokyo when the "holy" emperor of Japan bestowed the Order of the Rising Sun on the American Marine officer—for teaching His Nibs to play poker.

The raconteur was Sergt. Major George Nelson, who signed up with the Devil Dogs back in 1917, and whose subsequent career has taken him to such points as San Domingo, Haiti, Cuba, Nicaragua and China. He was in Nicaragua when the Marines kept the bandits out of the ballot boxes for the first free election back in the '20s.

Most Cherished Medal
He was in Shanghai's Settlement in 1932, when 1,200 Marines growled at 50,000 Japs and gave the latter twelve hours to get the heck out of the international settlement.

He has had medals hung on him all along the way, and medals are pretty old stuff to him now. But he still gets a kick out of telling about the Order of the Rising Sun—and here's how it came about:

"You see, this officer—I won't give you his name to print, because he's dead now and it might embarrass his widow—anyway this officer was serving a tour as attaché in Tokyo, and somehow this emperor took a shine to him.

"It wasn't Hirohito—it was some other guy—Hiroo daddy, or maybe, his granddaddy. Anyway, His Nibs was an admirer of western culture, and he called in the colonel pretty often to question him about American ways, and learn all he could about how we act in this country. Which was pretty big stuff for the colonel, because the Jap emperor is something holy over there, you know—and a mere mortal man wasn't supposed to look at him.

So it seems that in the course of their conversations, the colonel told the emperor something like this:

Completing the Education
"I've taught you a lot of our American customs, but there's one thing without which no Occidental education is complete: It is a game. A game of kings, because it requires money to play, and high intelligence, too.

So the emperor was all ears, according to the sarge, and nothing would do him but that the colonel should instruct him in the mysteries of this ancient and honorable game.

Well, said Sergt. Major Nelson, the colonel stayed there twelve

Ryan Will Speak At Armistice Day Ceremony

Exercises Will Be Held at Soldier's Monument
Thursday Morning

FROSTBURG, Nov. 8 — Edward J. Ryan, past commander of Frostburg Post, No. 24, American Legion, will be the principal speaker at the annual Armistice day exercises to be held Thursday morning at soldier's monument, post office place.

The program, as arranged by the American Legion, sponsors, will begin at 11 o'clock with the ringing of church bells. The Rev. Francis E.
Montgomery, administrator of St.
Michael's Catholic church will offer the invocation and Mrs. W. O.
McLure will give a declamation.
The exercises will be followed by the address of the past commander
Ryan. The Rev. Edwin R. Weider, pastor of Zion Evangelical and Reformed church, will pronounce the benediction.

A salute will be fired by a squad from the American Legion, under command of County Commissioner S. W. Green and taps will be sounded by the post bugler.

Former Missionary To Japan Will Speak

Dr. Gilbert W. Schroer, who was a missionary of the Reformed church in Japan for twenty years will speak several times in Maryland and Pennsylvania this week.

Yesterday and today he was the guest of the Rev. J. E. Gindlesperger, pastor of the Willis Creek church, consisting of the Mt. Lebanon, Glencoe, White Oak and Peachontas congregations.

Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock he will speak at special union service to be held in Salem Evangelical and Reformed church, in Frostburg.
Thursday and Friday he will be the guest of the Rev. Raymond Winters, pastor of the Hyndman Evangelical and Reformed church.

Sunday morning, Nov. 14, he will speak in St. Mark's Reformed church in Cumberland, of which the Rev. Alfred Cragger is pastor.
On Sunday night he will speak in unity church, in Meyersdale.

Dr. Schroer is a graduate of the Mission House college and seminary at Plymouth, Wis., and of the Keio-gaku school of Missions, and the Yokohama school of Religious Education, from which he received the degree of Ph. D. in 1938.

Following Japan's attack on Pearl Harbor, Dr. Schroer was imprisoned for 165 days at Moroka. Upon his release early in June, 1942, he and his family returned to America on the liner Gripsholm.

Christmas Mailing

Michael J. Byrnes, Frostburg postmaster, received an official bulletin today in which the War department advises that Christmas greeting cards for soldiers overseas must be sent in sealed envelopes and prepaid at the first class rate of postage.

The War department further states that such cards be mailed at once—stating that cards mailed now will, according to the army postal service, reach even the most remote A.P.O.s by December 25. First class postage rate is three cents for each ounce.

Will Present Plays

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Slout's theater workshop and players will be presented in the auditorium of Frostburg State Teachers college, Tuesday, November 9, at 9:45 a. m. The theater workshop will show on the stage what goes on behind the scenes in the transformation from man to actor.

Characters from Shakespeare's dramas, from history and from modern novels will be created in full view of the audience and the make-up and costumes explained.

Some of the presentations of Mr.
and Mrs. Slout are: "Sweethearts," which is an arrangement of Gilbert and Sullivan's operettas; "Benjamin Franklin Speaks," in which
"Poor Richard" comes to life; "Crazy Ideas," a modern comedy; and "Theater of the Air."

Logsdon Leaves

Don Elroy Logsdon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Logsdon, Eckhart, a 1943 graduate of Beall high school, who qualified last May for V-5 training, is a naval aviator and left Nov. 8, after being transferred to the V-12 group for the University of Richmond, Virginia, to begin his eighth month's course.

Logsdon was employed by the Cumberland Iron Works Company, Cumberland, Md., where he was graduating from school. He has been a member of the school's V-5 training group for several months and has been ordered to report to the University of Richmond, Virginia, to begin his eighth month's course.

Farm Program

John H. Carter, county agent, announced that November 15 will be the last day that farmers may make application for supplementary lime which is furnished them by the Triple-A committee.

He also announced that December 31 was the last day that farmers participating in the AAA program can report practices followed in 1942 in regard to the amount of lime or fertilizer put on farms. Carter said that no farm supervisor would visit the farms this year and that re-

Two Lonaconing Seamen Declared Officially Dead

John Langley, Jr., and George Crichton Killed in Action

LONAONING, Nov. 8 — John Langley, Jr., and George Crichton, seamen first class of the United States Naval Reserve, have been declared officially dead, according to letters received from the Navy department.

Mrs. Jennie Peebles, mother of Langley, and Mrs. George Foote, mother of Crichton, received the following letter from A. C. Jacobs, commander, H.S.N.R., head of casualties and allotments section:

"It was the sad duty of the Navy department to inform you during September that your son had been reported as 'missing following action'. An amplifying dispatch from the commanding officer of the ship upon which your son was serving, now reports that he did in fact lose his life in this action on September 11, 1943.

"The bureau is without definite information as to whether or not your son's body has been recovered."

P. D. Lohmann, commander, United States Navy, commanding the U. S. S. Savannah, informed Mrs.
Peebles that her son "died while at his post of duty" and that the body has not been recovered.

He wrote Mrs. Foote that her son also died at his post of duty on September 11 and that he was buried at sea.

Frank Knox, secretary of navy, conveyed short notes of sympathy to the mothers of the two sailors.
They were received today.

Both Langley and Crichton attended Central high school. They enlisted together on January 17, 1943, and received their boat training at Bainbridge Naval Training Center. After a short leave, they were stationed at Norfolk, Va., before going on combat duty.

Mrs. Langley has another son,
James Langley, in the navy, now stationed at Norfolk, Va. He was received home on leave from Sampson, New York, where he received his boat training. Her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Langley, is employed by the War Department, Washington, D. C.

Honor Roll Is Dedicated in Hardy County

Judge Calhoun Calls for Preservation of Freedom in America

MOOREFIELD, Nov. 8 — Mrs. I. N.
Dove of the Mathias section of Hardy county, mother of Pvt. Oden Dove, first soldier from Hardy county to die in World War II, unveiled the honor roll erected in Moorefield for all men from the county in the service.

The dedication services were held Sunday afternoon. The first part of the program was held at the Moorefield high school auditorium and then the entire group, led by a color guard of the American Legion, John M. Goldfarb Post, and members of the high school band, went to the Legion building where the honor roll has been erected and the service was concluded there.

S. L. Dodd, Jr., was master of ceremonies. The audience joined in singing "America," after which the Rev. W. A. Murray of the Presbyterian church, gave the invocation.
Mrs. George W. Kuhn sang the recessional and Judge H. M. Calhoun was introduced.

Must Preserve Freedom

Judge Calhoun began his remarks by pointing out that it was certainly the Divine hand and not blind circumstance that led Columbus through uncharted waters more than 450 years ago. He cited briefly outstanding episodes in the history of America which tended to make us the freest, wealthiest and happiest nation on earth.

"Victory must hold more for the world than an Armistice of twenty-five years," said Judge Calhoun said in pointing out that it was selfish considerations which kept the United States out of the League of Nations at the close of World War I.

The honor roll, which Hardy county was dedicating, Judge Calhoun said, represents more than 40 board with names on it, it represents flesh and blood and is the symbol of the more than 700 young men who have gone from this section into the service of the country.

"We must do more than merely dedicate this board," said Judge Calhoun. We must dedicate ourselves to certain tasks and things that the war, which is being fought on both battle fronts and home fronts may go forward on all fronts."

"And the things to which the citizens of Hardy county were asked to dedicate themselves were the preservation of precious institutions, those things for which our men are fighting; the upholding of their hands and ministering to their comfort and well-being—such as contributing to war loans and the present war fund drive; and the task of building a better world.

Many Mothers Present

After Judge Calhoun had completed his remarks the color guard of the American Legion, composed of Marco Starchevich, Angus Sevmour, A. D. Wood and C. E. Williams, led the audience to the site of the honor roll. Here the Rev.
E. S. Wilson, pastor of Moorefield Methodist church, made a dedicatory prayer and a quartet, composed of Foster Arnold, W. J. Teets, Clyde Shanholzer and L. R. Grover sang "Our Native Land."

Advice to Hunters For Bad Weather

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 8 (AP)—Maj. H. B. Wahfield of Fort Douglas, who has gone after big game himself, gives this advice to hunters who may run into bad weather:

"Before going out, put a piece of old inner tube in your pocket. That stuff will burn even though wet and makes a scorching heat that will start almost any kind of wood."

The only problem now, where to find an innertube?

Non-Coms To Serve As Kitchen Police

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Nov. 8 (AP)—Top sergeants the world over may shudder, but: On Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's days non-commissioned officers of the three upper grades in detachment No. 1 at the second WAC training center will do kitchen police duties.

Observed the public relations officer: "Many a private will feel a compensating, if temporary, superiority x x x. The sergeant, too, may get a new perspective."

WHEN NOT TO CUE BID

IT IS NOT always best to cue-bid your opponent's suit, as a means of showing general power to your partner and the ability to take the first trick in their suit. Doing that may steer them away from the opening lead which you wish they would make. If you have some other way to indicate your power, and still preserve the probability of that lead, you may sometimes find that to be more advisable.

South's bidding plan, at Table 2 of the duplicate game where this deal arose, proved to be worth two tricks to his side as the opening lead from East was a spade, the K. North won it, cleared trumps and discarded all of his losers on the dummy's diamonds.

Clever bidding, from a defensive standpoint, enabled East and West at the first table to hold the hand to exactly 11 tricks. The moment that South cue-bid the spades, indicating terrific power and the ## ability to take the first trick in that suit

West put in a barrier bid of 3-spades, preparing his partner for a sacrifice if that proved later to be wise.

After North indicated his suit length with 4-Clubs, East wanted to make sure, now that a spade opening lead was virtually out of the question, that West would open a heart instead of a diamond. His bid of 4-Hearts at that stage was perfectly safe because of the known fit in spades. When the opponents then went to 5-Clubs, East refrained from sacrificing because he thought a heart lead might have some chance of beating the contract. That proved not to be the case, but it did hold South to exactly five-odd. Of course, a sacrifice would have paid East and West at either table, but it was not made, and that was not the really valuable lesson of this deal anyway.

Card of Thanks

We take this means of expressing sincere thanks to those of our friends and neighbors who were so sympathetic and helpful during the illness and following the death of our beloved wife and sister, Mrs. David (Scott) Phillips. We are grateful for the many floral tributes and to those who sent motor cars for the funeral and to all others who assisted us. HUSBAND, SISTERS AND BROTHERS

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. Margaret M. Crowe, who died 30 years ago today, November 8, 1913.
A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled,
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has recalled,
The boon His love has given,
And though the body slumbers there,
The soul is safe in heaven.

Big Gifts Group Reports Several Subscriptions

National War Fund and Chest Campaign Workers Prepare for Drive

With three meetings held yesterday and one Friday, organization and plans are being developed for the combined National War Fund and Community Chest campaign which gets underway here November 22. The county's goal is $93,000.

Last night William A. Gunter, chairman of the Big Gifts committee, was host to members of the committee at dinner in the Central Y.M.C.A. and announced at that time that the first subscription was that of the Celanese Corporation of America for $10,000.

It was stressed throughout the meeting, attended by twenty-six committee members, that it would be necessary to secure substantially larger subscriptions if the Big Gifts committee's quota of $42,000 out of the total goal of $93,000 is to be reached.

Other Subscriptions Announced

Gunter also announced that subscriptions will be published from time to time in the daily newspapers.

Following announcement of the Celanese plant subscription, other subscriptions already received were announced. They were Liberty Trust Company of Cumberland, $350; Attorney General and Mrs. William C. Walsh, $250; Dr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Hawkins, $250; Mr. and Mrs. Edmund S. Burke, $250; Mr. and Mrs. William A. Gunter, $150; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swearingen, $100.

These contributions represent an average increase of about forty per cent over those of the last campaign, Gunter said.

The Big Gifts committee, Gunter related, hopes to finish its work before November 22, opening date of the campaign to raise a year's fund amounting to $65,000 for the National War Fund and $28,000 for the Community Chest for its operation from April to October 1944, thus eliminating the usual annual chest spring campaign.

At noon yesterday, division leaders of the Classified section, Henry W. Price, chairman, met in Central Y.M.C.A. to discuss plans and further its organization. Joseph Trenton, Charles Helmrich and Earl Robertson are associate chairmen.

The following are division leaders:

Division one, automotive, A. G. Miller; division two, financial, John W. Robinson; division three, foods, W. T. Timmons; division four, mercantile, P. E. Myers and N. S. Gugenheimer; division five, general, D. C. Goodfellow; division six, served commodities, J. W. Bishop; division seven, education, C. L. Kopp; division eight, professional, the Rev. William von Spreckelsen; division nine, governmental, James Orr; division ten, public service, J. H. Cromwell; division eleven, utilities, G. L. Johnson.

Women Leaders Meet

Division leaders of the Women's section met yesterday afternoon in the Community Chest offices to outline plans and make further steps toward completing the organization.

Solicitation of the Women's section, Mrs. Gerard Everstine, chairman, and Mrs. William M. Sommerville, associate chairman, will be done entirely in the residential section.

Campaign officials said yesterday the women always have set a high campaign standard in the past and always have exceeded their goal, last year obtaining $4,760 on a goal of $4,500.

Division leaders in the Women's section are:

Division one, Mrs. H. W. Smith; Mrs. Morris Barnes; division two, Mrs. Frank Young; Mrs. Edgar Van- (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Owls Open Drive For 1,000 Members

Spaghetti Dinner Is Held at Home on Harrison Street

Opening a thirty day campaign for 1,000 new members, Nest No. 90, Order of Owls, held a spaghetti dinner at the home of the order on Harrison street last night for members and their wives.

Charles L. George, president of the organization, spoke briefly in telling members present of plans to build up the lodge here. Clarence Shutter, past president, also spoke and reported on the progress of the local lodge since its reorganization a year ago.

Clark Henry, chairman of the membership campaign, outlined plans for the drive and Dr. George P. Paulman, treasurer and member of the Owls for thirty-one years, made a few remarks on growth of the organization here in the past year.

George introduced Chief Petty Officer Thomas Barnard, now stationed in Chicago as an instructor in aerodynamics for the navy, who has been an Owl for twenty years and who was a president of the order here about twenty years ago.

Martha Norris, Cresaptown, furnished accordion and vocal music at the dinner.

Officers of the lodge besides George and Dr. Paulman are Charles Kiplinger, Jr., vice president; Fred H. Smith, secretary; Melvin Dean, recording secretary; and James F. Krampf, invocator.

551 NEW VOTERS ENROLL IN COUNTY SINCE LAST REGISTRATION IN 1942

According to declarations of intentions filed in circuit court here, Allegany county gained 551 new voters since the last registration was held in October, 1942. Of this number 194 filed their declarations since November 1 of this year. Saturday was the last day for new voters to declare themselves.

No indication was given as to the party affiliations of the new voters and percentages gained by either Republicans or Democrats will not be known until registration is held prior to the primary elections in the spring.

According to a report received from neighboring Washington county, new gains were scored there by the Republicans in registration on Saturday when 190 Republicans were enrolled at the office of the board of election supervisors as opposed to 120 Democrats.

This net gain of forty brought last week's gain for Republicans in Washington county to 102 over the Democrats. A total of 355 GOP members were registered and 253 Democrats enrolled during the period.

McCooie Man Made County Fire Chief

Homer Ambrose Will Head Allegany County Volunteer Companies

Homer Ambrose, of McCooie and president of the Allegany-Garrett Volunteer Firemen's Association, was elected fire chief for Allegany county at a meeting of the association's executive committee Sunday at the Bowman's Addition Fire Department.

Election of a chief for Garrett county was deferred because of the attendance of representatives from only one company from the county.

The Flintstone Volunteer Department was accepted as an association member and representatives of the Bedford road section attended to discuss plans relative to forming a new company there.

The request was made that any companies having equipment of any kind that is not in use make it available for purchase by the newly organized companies so as to help them get a start.

It was announced that Chief J. W. Just, head of the fire extension service of the University of Maryland, will speak at the next monthly meeting of the executive committee on December 6 at the Baltimore Pike station. Dr. Robert W. Work, civilian defense director for Allegany county, will also attend that meeting.

Guards Cancel Drill

Cancellation of the regular Wednesday night drill of Company C, Maryland State Guard, was announced last evening by Capt. Thomas F. Conlon. Participation in the Armistice day parade Thursday will replace the regular drill.

B. & O. Reduces Reportable Lost Time Injuries by 59 Per Cent

A decrease of fifty-nine per cent in the number of reportable lost time injuries among employees on the Cumberland, Wheeling and Monongah division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for September was announced yesterday by Robert B. Kimble, safety supervisor assigned to the Eastern region.

Kimble said that in the first month of the no-accident drive a total of seven reportable injuries were recorded, a reduction of ten compared to the total of seventeen for August.

"Our objective in September was a no-accident month," Kimble declared, "and while we did not attain this goal I believe that our campaign showed good results."

The I.C.C. regulations provide that a reportable injury is recorded when an employee loses more than

Charter Arrives For Springfield's New Scout Troop

Franklin, Md., Troop Is Forty-eighth To File Application

Charters for a new troop at Springfield, W. Va. and the reorganized Troop No. 22, sponsored by Carver high school, have been received at the headquarters of Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, it was announced yesterday by Kenneth Jackson, scout executive.

Jackson also stated that an application for a charter has been received from Troop No. 78, of Franklin, Md., sponsored by the Methodist Mission. When this charter is granted the Franklin troop will become the forty-eighth in the council, which is two short of the goal set by the organization for this year.

The new Springfield unit will be Troop No. 77 and is sponsored by the Methodist and Presbyterian churches. William R. Manross is scoutmaster, Gilbert S. Rannels, assistant scoutmaster, and the troop committee comprises the Rev. S. D. Sawyers, chairman, William H. Ansel, Jr., L. G. Martin, William T. Milleson, Junior Milleson, Homer K. Loy, E. W. Browning, the Rev. G. W. Heaton, C. J. Blue, Carl P. Long and Walter L. Grace, Jr.

The scouts are William Manross, Mike Ansel, Bill Loy, Bill Powers, John Fields, Jr., William Deskins, Sidney Roach, Kenneth Davis and Kenneth Haines.

Aviation Cadets To Take Enlistment Oath Here Saturday

About twenty-five seventeen-year-old youths who have passed their mental and physical examinations for induction as aviation cadets will take the oath of enlistment Saturday, November 13, at 1 p. m., Tech. Sgt. Clarence L. Biehn, local Army recruiter announced yesterday.

The oath will be administered by Capt. Lee R. Conley, of the Aviation Cadet Examining Board in Baltimore, who will be accompanied by Tech. Sgt. John C. Seals.

Eight applicants for aviation cadets took their mental examinations Saturday and yesterday and will report within a week for their physical examination in Baltimore. After passing both mental and physical tests, those who are 17 years of age will be deferred for final induction until six months after they reach their eighteenth birthday. They may, however, volunteer to report for training any time after they become 18.

Those who took mental examinations are:

Mary Jo Valentine Remains Unconscious In Allegany Hospital

No improvement was reported last night in the condition of Mary Jo Valentine, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royal Valentine, 246 Humbird street, who was hit by a car Saturday on Park street, taken to the Allegany hospital.

At 11 o'clock last night the child had not regained consciousness since she was admitted to the hospital.

The condition of Gabriel Stevanus, 86, of Route 5, who was taken to Allegany hospital Sunday night after he was struck by an automobile while crossing the McMullen highway near the Celanese plant, was reported favorable last night.

Frank Mason Dayton, 217 Vine street, Westernport, operator of the car that struck Stevanus, will be given a hearing today on a reckless driving charge. State Trooper Joseph F. White investigated.

B. & O. Reduces Reportable Lost Time Injuries by 59 Per Cent

seventy-two hours in the first 240 hours starting immediately at the time of the injury.

Kimble pointed out that the Baltimore and Ohio railroad record for the first nine months of 1943 is four-tenths of one per cent over last year and added that a special drive will be conducted on the Cumberland, Wheeling and Monongah division in December to better last year's record.

The safety supervisor admitted that due to the increased movement of tonnage and passenger business, which is triple that of before the war, and the tremendous increase in man hours, there is a greater possibility of accidents occurring. He believes, however, that injuries can be reduced to a minimum if employees co-operate by abiding by the safety regulations given wide publicity by the company.

STOPS HERE IN TEST—Gasoline made from coal was used for the first time in a test flight Saturday between Morgantown, W. Va., and Washington, D. C. The plane, piloted by Major Arthur C. Hyde, of the Maryland Civil Air Patrol, with Rep. Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia, as passenger, stopped at the Cumberland airport Saturday shortly after noon en route to the capital. Rep. Randolph is shown presenting a can of the new coal-gasoline to Senator Joseph O'Mahoney, of Wyoming, at the Washington airport. The plane is a Fairchild 24.

1917 Company G To March Again Armistice Day

Sixty Veterans Will Attend Reunion Dinner Following Parade

Members of Company G, First Maryland Infantry, who left here in 1917 for training at Camp McClellan, Ala., and later saw overseas service in the First World War, will march as a unit at the head of one of the five divisions in the Armistice day parade here, it was announced last evening by William W. McHugh.

The American and Maryland flags which were presented to the company when it left here twenty-six years ago, will be removed from the Cumberland Free Public Library, and carried by the war veterans.

Plans are under way to have Associate Judge William A. Huster, who captained the company in 1917 and Hume Opie Annan, who was a second lieutenant, lead the group in the parade.

McHugh, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the reunion and said together with the company, said that members will assemble on South Centre street at 8:30 p. m. for the parade.

Following the parade the reunion dinner will be held at the Golden Gate Tea Room, South Centre street, instead of at 6:30 p. m. as originally planned. Reservations have been made for sixty at the dinner.

Lent Will Appeal Decision in Washing Machine Price Case

Magistrate Awards Triple Damages in Suit over Ceiling Price

Max Lent, owner of a second-hand store at 103 North Centre street, will appeal to circuit court, Judge Connelley, Noel Speil Cook, said.

At a decision of Magistrate F. A. Perdue awarding Mrs. Fannie Robinson, Oldtown road, triple damages of $202.50 in the first local case involving price ceiling regulations of the Office of Price Administration.

Mrs. Robinson testified at a hearing last week that she purchased a used washing machine from Lent, paying $95 and that the OPA ceiling price on such a model was only $27.50. She filed suit for triple the amount of overcharge through her attorney, William E. McHugh, and yesterday Magistrate Perdue announced his decision in the case tried last week in trial magistrate's court.

No defense witnesses testified at the hearing and Cook said last night that on cross examination Mrs. Robinson said she purchased the washing machine for her sister who resides in Moorefield, W. Va.

Purchased for Sister

The money paid for the machine, Cook said Mrs. Robinson stated was on account of her sister. She added, the attorney said, that she would be reimbursed. Cook said at the hearing on the appeal he will use as the agent, Mrs. Robinson, is the improper party plaintiff because the principal, the sister in Moorefield, had title to the machine.

Cook related that before witnesses in the case were sworn, he had tendered Mrs. Robinson in good faith $67.50 to make up the difference between the ceiling price and the overcharge. Mrs. Robinson refused the settlement.

B. and O. Group Will Have Stag Party on Friday

Tenth Anniversary of Traffic Program Will Be Observed

The tenth anniversary of the Baltimore and Ohio Co-operative Traffic Program organization will be observed Friday when a stag party, consisting of a sea food feast and entertainment will be held in the state armory here. The affair was originally scheduled for Fairgo, but due to the number wanting to attend, it was transferred to the armory.

Due to wartime conditions, food rationing, etc., the number of persons who will be admitted to the party has been restricted to 500. Those in charge of arrangements said that requests have been made for over 1,000 seats and that it will be impossible to accommodate more than 500.

The Traffic program organization sponsored the Baltimore and Ohio day here in May 1941 and the parade was said to be the largest ever held in this city and 900 persons attended the dinner and dance.

Organized in 1933

Similar social functions are being held at other points on the B. and O. system commemorating the tenth anniversary of the Co-operative Traffic group. The program was inaugurated by the late Daniel Willard, then president of the B. and O. in December 1933.

Today, because America is at war, the Traffic program is enlisting support of employees in meeting the demands that are being made upon the railroads for service.

The next event for the organization after the stag party will be a dinner and dance which is scheduled for the early part of December and will be sponsored by the men's and women's joint committee of the C. T. P.

Committees for the stag party are as follows:

Reservations—C. D. Shaffer, chairman; C. W. Conway, H. A. Dayton, R. M. Douglas, C. J. McKay, H. T. Henry, W. P. Frey, E. C. Groves, E. H. Martin, W. M. Kay, F. C. Crockett, James McFarland, W. Committees of the Traffic program follow:

C. F. Hare, chairman; J. R. Miller, first vice chairman; C. D. Shaffer, second vice chairman; R. L. Ketzner, secretary and F. C. Mamajek, treasurer.

Advisory Board—H. F. Wyatt, W. H. Longwell, H. D. Whip, A. H. Bennett, H. D. Schmidt, R. W. Eves, C. T. Carney, E. C. Groves, H. L. Exley, W. C. Barnes, C. T. Lindell, L. G. Kohler, M. N. Freese and M. W. Groves.

Back Shop—A. H. Bennett, chairman, W. J. Dixon, W. P. Yarnall, F. E. Purinton, L. L. McKay, G. F. Buskey, O. E. Hensell and W. E. Mousse.

Stores Department—L. G. Kohler, chairman; W. H. Shaw and R. M. Douglas.

M. of W.—H. L. Exley, chairman; F. W. Bailey, W. House and P. Lencorovich.

Car Department—C. M. Scott, chairman; J. H. Raupach and W. L. Cook.

Bolt and Forge Shop—R. W. Eves, chairman; J. L. Fisher, J. J. Carney and W. H. Bittner.

Round House—W. H. Longwell, chairman; A. E. Beckman, A. M. Lewis, C. J. Hansrope, C. E. Gainer, E. P. Davis, H. W. Bloss, C. W. Conway, A. E. Burner, E. W. Conn, L. Jewell, C. E. Hardy, W. T. Howser, H. A. Dayton, C. M. Kennedy and M. G. Light.

Freight Agent—H. D. Whip, chairman and H. T. Henry.

Transportation—E. C. Groves, chairman; H. E. Wright, O. O. Sterne, W. N. Foster and R. L. Ketzner.

Members of the Tri-State Traffic Club, at a meeting last night in the Algonquin hotel heard an outline of the transportation needs as forecasted for the coming year by J. F. Duesenberry, district manager, Car Service Division, Association of American Railroads, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Duesenberry told of what had been accomplished by the railroads in the present year and what they would have to prepare for in the next six months at least.

Transportation, the speaker said, can win or lose wars, depending upon how it is handled. More troops, more material and more supplies have been moved so far in this war than in any other previous conflict. No one section of the country is unaffected this time as was the case in 1918 when the Eastern seaboard carriers had most of the burden.

Shippers and receivers of freight have a vital part in following the programs through the regional advisory boards which have been a means of welding together the various units using transportation. Some of the objectives which Cumberland traffic men will face will be to load cars heavier, clean cars after unloading so as to make them promptly available for other users and unload cars immediately upon arrival within the first twenty-four hours when ever possible.

Certain sections of the country are experiencing some car shortages, mainly in the Northwest and in the wheat and grain leading districts of the West. Each Eastern receiver or shipper who releases a car a day earlier helps to alleviate such occurrences, Duesenberry said.

Because estimates indicate a six

Col. Herbert Grimes Will Speak at War Memorial Dedication

Col. Herbert L. Grimes, of the Third Service Command, will replace Col. George Henderson as one of the principal speakers at exercises marking the dedication of the Allegany County War Memorial on Armistice day at 8 p. m., in city hall, Thomas F. Conlon, chairman, announced last evening.

The change was made when Col. Henderson advised the War Memorial committee that he will be unable to be present due to filling another engagement in Michigan on that date.

Rep. J. Glenn Beall, of Frostburg, also was unable to accept an invitation to speak at the exercises.

The program will last about forty-five minutes, Conlon said.

Mrs. Charles Walton Dies at Her Home

Former Resident of Cumberland Was Native of Buxton, England

Mrs. Clare Ledger Walton, wife of Charles D. Walton, former works manager for the Celanese Corporation of America, and former resident of Cumberland, died at 2 p. m. Sunday at her home, "Hayes Hill," Green Meadow road, Pleasantville, N. Y. She had been in failing health for some time.

Mrs. Walton was a native of Buxton, Derbyshire, England, and while residing in that country the Walton family and the families of Fred T. Small and Hugo Keller, now of Cumberland, were neighbors.

The Walton family came direct to Cumberland from England in September 1924 when Mr. Walton was appointed superintendent of the spinning department at the Celanese plant here. In October 1929, he was promoted to works manager, and in the fall of 1940, he was made general manager of yarn production of all Celanese plants, with offices at the New York headquarters.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Walton is survived by three sons, Stanley, at home; Derek, with the United States Merchant Marine in foreign waters; and Charles Alfred Walton, scheduled to be inducted into the United States Army yesterday.

Two sisters, Mrs. Walter Robbins and Mrs. Harry Stott, and one brother, David Ledger, also survive. They live in England. Stanley Walton, Hagerstown; and Ronald and Clifford Walton, England, are her brothers-in-law.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete but services probably will be held Wednesday with interment near Pleasantville, about thirty miles from New York City.

SAUL J. DALTON

Saul J. Dalton, 43, died Sunday night in Edgewater hospital, Miami, Fla. He had been residing in Miami for the past three weeks.

Mr. Dalton was engaged in construction work with Baker and Combs, Morgantown, W. Va., for twenty-two years and later was employed at the Kelly-Springfield Engineering Company here.

A veteran of the First World War, Mr. Dalton was a member of Morgantown Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

A native of Morgantown, Mr. Dalton was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Dalton, Morgantown, who survive, besides his widow, Mrs. Helen Keyser Dalton; one son, Pfc. Robert Dalton, United States Marine Corps, Parris Island, S. C.; five brothers, Pfc. Ray Dalton, Miami, Fla.; Seaman Second Class Maurice Dalton, United States Navy; Capt. Warren Dalton, United States Army, Shreveport, La.; Clarence A. Dalton, Morgantown; and five sisters, Mrs. Bertha Watson, Morgantown; Mrs. Verna Harris, Morgantown; Mrs. Goldie Harris, Morgantown; Miss Maxine Dalton, Miami; and Miss Jean Dalton, at home.

Mrs. Helen Dalton, the widow, is a sister of Mrs. Wilfred A. Thompson, Mrs. David L. Lynch and Denzil E. Keyser, Cumberland; and Bradford C. Keyser, Ridgeley, W. Va. Funeral services will be held in Morgantown, Friday.

MRS. JOSEPH DEPOLIS

Mrs. Viola True Depolis, 45, wife of Joseph Depolis, Aliquippa, Pa., died Sunday in a Pittsburgh hospital.

Army-Navy Test Scheduled Today In Seven Schools

Fifty Graduates and Seniors To Take Examinations at 9 a. m.

Approximately fifty high school graduates and high school seniors who will complete their high school graduation requirements before March 1, 1944, will take the Army-Navy qualifying tests which will be conducted today from 9 to 11 a. m. in Frostburg State Teachers college and six Allegany county high schools.

Seniors slated to be graduated in June are not eligible, but may take a similar test to be conducted next spring. Age requirements specify that the men must be 17 but may yet 22 by March 1.

The tests will afford successful candidates further academic, military and physical education under the Army Specialized Training or Navy College Training programs.

Cooper To Give Test

Dr. John A. Cooper will give the two-hour test at Frostburg State Teachers college where approximately fifteen college students, high school graduates and seniors will report this morning.

Victor D. Heisey, principal, and Ralph Wetner, a member of the faculty, will conduct the examination for approximately twenty students at Hill high school.

At Allegany high school, Ralph R. Webster, will give tests to approximately five youths and the same number will be given examinations at Barton high school by Gilbert C. Cooling, principal.

Lewyn C. Davis, principal, announces he will give tests to four in Bruce high school, Westernport, while three will take the exam at Central high school, Lonaconing, where Arthur P. Smith, principal, will be in charge.

Examination at LaSalle

From eight to ten are expected to report for the examination at LaSalle high school where Brother Edmund will preside.

The test will consume two hours. All questions will be of the "best answer" type in which the candidate is to select the best or correct answer to questions from several choices. The test will not require advanced mathematics but will test the competitors' knowledge of arithmetic and elementary algebra.

Each student will receive a report indicating success or failure on the test, but not all the students will receive their reports at the same time.

Tunnelton Railroader Held on Draft Charge

Arraigned yesterday morning before United States Commissioner Wilbur W. Wilson, Norvin G. Castle, of Tunnelton, W. Va., was committed to the county jail in default of $1,500 bond, pending his removal to Wheeling, W. Va., for a hearing on charges of failing to report for induction at Tunnelton.

Castle, a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad brakeman, was arrested here last Wednesday by Officer A. C. King, of the railroad police, at the request of United States Deputy Marshal Howard P. Loughrie. He admitted receiving induction notice, but said he was a "little late" in reporting. He will be held here until federal authorities arrange for his transfer to Wheeling.
